COMPLAINT CHARGES ACTOR WITH MURDER

Mrs. Delmont, Who Swears to Charge, Collapses in Courtroom

United Press Leased Wire

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, was formally charged with murder today.

Mrs. Bambina Maud Delmont, friend of beautiful Miss Virginia Rappe, Los Angeles movie actress, appeared with District Attorney Matthew Brady in Police Judge Obrien's court shortly after 11 a. m., and swore to a complaint charging Arbuckle with the murder of Miss Rappe.

Mrs. Delmont collapsed in the courtroom after swearing to the complaint.

District Attorney Brady followed the charge with an order forbidding the shipment of Miss Rappe's body to Los Angeles.

Coroner T. W. Bland announced that the inquest would be started at 2 p. m. today.

These developments, coming in rapid succession, after a brief meeting in the office of District Attorney Brady, Mrs. Delmont, Mrs. Delmont and Mrs. S. W. Bland, were taken to mean that Brady had determined on a course of rapid prosecution.

Arbuckle Summoned
Immediately afterward Arbuckle was summoned to the courtroom after Captain of Detectives Matheson had told Police Judge Obrien he would not permit Arbuckle to waive the formality of appearing in court.

"All prisoners must be treated alike," Matheson insisted.

The complaint sworn to by Mrs. Delmont charged Arbuckle did "willfully, unlawfully, feloniously and maliciously aforethought kill and murder Miss Virginia Rappe, a human being."

The bailiff reported that Arbuckle still was conferring with his attorney.

"Court is adjourned for five minutes," Judge Obrien announced.

Then he turned to the bailiff, instructing him to bring Arbuckle into court within that time and refuse to permit the calling of any other prisoners ahead of him.

"We won't show this man any favors here," Obrien declared, plainly angry.

Arbuckle finally appeared in court at 11:30 after two calls had been sent him.

His face was long, lined and showed the traces of worry.

Face Twitches
As he walked up to the bar before the judge's bench, he clasped his hands across his stomach and his face twitched nervously.

Attorneys Charles Brennan and Milton Cohen, for Arbuckle, asked an immediate continuance, but Judge Obrien refused, insisting that Arbuckle be arraigned.

The clerk then read Arbuckle the complaint filed a half hour previously by Mrs. Delmont. The district attorney said that it was the one on which he was to be prosecuted and the first complaint filed Saturday night as a formality, was dismissed.

"Is Roscoe Arbuckle your true name?" the court asked.

"Yes," Arbuckle answered in a firm voice. It was the only word he spoke during the entire proceedings.

By agreement of the attorneys and the court the arraignment was then ordered continued until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Attorney Brennan for Arbuckle announced he would ask that further proceedings be behind closed doors to protect Arbuckle from the curiosity of the throngs gathered in the courtroom.

When the arraignment was over, Arbuckle was led into the judge's chamber, instead of being taken through the prisoner's door to the jail. This was done to avoid leading him through the crowded courtroom.

Links Up With Criminals
Prior to facing court, Arbuckle, once a San Francisco bar boy and now favorite of movie fans perhaps numbered in millions, lined up with the Monday morning crowd of drunks, petty criminals and vagrants who marched from his barred cell in "felony row" to the cage in the courtroom of Police Judge Obrien.

There his case had its turn on the docket and "Fatty" was scheduled to

ROS COE ("Fatty") ARBUCKLE

STAR'S MOTHER LIES BURIED IN S. A. GRAVE

Old Residents Here Recall Schoolboy Days of Film Actor.

That the mother of Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, movie comedian, accused of murder in San Francisco, lies buried in the old Santa Ana cemetery, became known here today. The grave, it is understood, is overgrown with weeds and has had no care for many years.

Several old residents here are recalling incidents in the childhood of the famous movie actor, who lived here when a child.

"Fatty" lived in a small cottage that stood on the spot now occupied by the American Express company's office. He attended the old Central school and later the First street school, now the Roosevelt school.

At school even at the early age of 6 he was known as "Fatty," so that so far as known the famous nickname originated during his early school days here. His mischievousness at school was a source of continual worry to his teachers, who predicted a stormy career for the boy. After school "Fatty" used to deliver washings in a little red wagon for his mother. Most of his evenings he spent at the old Grand Opera house, where William McCulloch was manager.

McCulloch said: "The boys used to run 'Fatty' off because he would not work. He seemed to take extra parts for the different traveling companies and appeared several times as an extra here during the time I was manager at the Grand."

A clearance here as an extra at 50 cents a night was an act of ten years after his residence here he was receiving $17.50 a week for singing popular songs in a San Jose vaudeville house. That was his first signed theater engagement, and since then his climb to fame as a comedian is well known.

Arbuckle Film Plays Not to Be Shown Here

Two films in which Fatty Arbuckle is starred and which were scheduled to be shown in Santa Ana soon will not be shown here.

H. E. Yost, manager of the West End, Yost and Temple theaters, has cancelled the Arbuckle bookings.

"The Bell Boy," an old comedy of Arbuckle's, was billed for the West End theater Friday and Saturday nights this week.

"One Crazy to Marry," a recent production, was on the books for showing at the Yost theater in October.

Manager Yost was in Los Angeles today and could not be reached for an interview. The fact that he had cancelled the Arbuckle bookings was given out authoritatively at his office here.

DETROIT OUSTS PICTURES
DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 12.—Detective Lieutenant Royal A. Baker, police motion picture censor, today barred "Fatty" Arbuckle films from Detroit theaters.

Arbuckle's Director Angry as He Says Charges Are Unfair

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—When asked today for a statement regarding the Roscoe Arbuckle case, Charles Eytan, general manager of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, replied:

"We have no knowledge of the subject except what has appeared in the papers.

"The unfortunate matter, in justice to all concerned, we feel that we should not make any statement at this time."

COMEDIAN NEAR TALKING WHEN SURPRISED BY REPORTERS

United Press Leased Wire

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, movie comedian, facing indictment in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, film beauty, almost granted an interview early today.

Arbuckle, eating breakfast was surprised by newspapermen in his cell. His attorneys were not present. Across the breakfast table from him was Albert Martin, his cellmate.

"Nothing I could say would do any good," said "Fatty."

"My attorneys have asked me to remain silent at present. What I have to say will be said in my own defense later."

"Everything I have said in the past while I was on my way up here seems to have been distorted and made to appear against me."

"I am not as black as I have been painted, and when I go into court the public will have a different opinion of me."

Words May Be Twisted
"You can easily see that a man in my position should remain silent at this time, because words are liable to be twisted into a meaning other than you intended."

Arbuckle had been aroused for breakfast by Martin, his cellmate.

Martin, unshaven and in the rough clothes of a laborer, was a direct contrast to "Fatty," who was nattily attired in his golf suit of green, and who had been freshly shaved.

Martin said Arbuckle slept soundly throughout the night, and when called he rubbed his eyes, yawned an Arbuckle yawn, rolled over and tried to go to sleep again.

When he arose, Martin said, he dressed with exceeding care and was liberated before ordering breakfast.

Arbuckle ordered breakfast for two—Martin and himself.

When a waiter from a nearby restaurant came in with the tray Arbuckle acted as host. He uncovered the dishes and carefully shaved Martin before helping himself.

Other Prisoners Watch Him
Martin immediately became the most envied man in the city jail. A score of prisoners gathered outside to "watch them eat" until guards ordered them away.

The boys used to run "Fatty" off because he would not work. He seemed to take extra parts for the different traveling companies and appeared several times as an extra here during the time I was manager at the Grand."

A clearance here as an extra at 50 cents a night was an act of ten years after his residence here he was receiving $17.50 a week for singing popular songs in a San Jose vaudeville house. That was his first signed theater engagement, and since then his climb to fame as a comedian is well known.

Arbuckle's Director Angry as He Says Charges Are Unfair

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—When asked today for a statement regarding the Roscoe Arbuckle case, Charles Eytan, general manager of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, replied:

"We have no knowledge of the subject except what has appeared in the papers.

"The unfortunate matter, in justice to all concerned, we feel that we should not make any statement at this time."

The company controls several of Arbuckle's films.

James Cruze, Lasky director, who directed the comedian in his latest pictures, is highly indignant at what he calls the "unfair and unjust" charges against Arbuckle.

"Everything that has been printed about Arbuckle is so unfair and unjust that I don't think I could say anything to help it, so I won't say anything," declared Cruze.

$105,000 Asked as U. S. Sues Mother of Bergdoll

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The federal government today started to "dig" for the famous Bergdoll "pot of gold."

Court action, asking that Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, mother of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire Philadelphia slacker, be compelled to turn over to the government $105,000 in gold coin which she withdrew from the federal treasury in 1917, was instituted today in Philadelphia by Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian.

Should the court hold the alien property custodian's demand for the gold to be legal and Mrs. Bergdoll then refused to produce it, she could be jailed or fined for contempt of court.

ARBUCKLE'S ARREST RENDS FILM COLONY INTO TWO FACTIONS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—Arrest of Roscoe Arbuckle in San Francisco, charged with the murder of the beautiful Virginia Rappe, has "split wide open" Los Angeles—the world's movie capital.

People are talking of nothing else. The movie colony is divided into two factions, one professing a belief in the innocence of the famous comedian—the other denouncing him.

A movie house last night followed the lead set in San Francisco and cancelled an announcement showing of one of his latest films.

Jesse L. Lasky, head of the numerous Lasky interests, was reported to have cancelled a trip to New York on which he was scheduled to start today, in order to watch and consider the Arbuckle case as it affects his companies. Lasky's companies control several of Arbuckle's films.

There were many rumors of cancelling picture contracts, but none were verified.

Minta Durfee, in real life Arbuckle's wife, from whom he has been separated, but not divorced, telegraphed friends here that she believed Arbuckle innocent.

Arbuckle has three films. It was stated here, which he had finished but which have not been released. There was much speculation as to what effect the charges against him would have on the success or failure or even the ultimate release of these films.

Arbuckle's salary at present—paid by the Paramount company, which is a Lasky interest—is said to be $5000 a week. His fortune is estimated at between one half million and one million dollars.

Those who know him are not reticent in admitting that Arbuckle could have been far more wealthy had it not been for his propensities as a spender. He had spent thousands in entertaining and in just "having a good time."

The preliminary hearing attracted a crowd of about 300 to the courtroom. About half of those present were women and girls. Many small boys peeped through the windows to get a glimpse of their screen favorite.

Sayre Takes Stand
Sayre, the first witness, said that he was traveling west toward the main highway, and that he did not see Mix's car until he reached the intersection. Sayre said that he then swerved to the right in an attempt to avoid the collision.

"My car hit his left front wheel," said Sayre, "and the blow turned my machine clear around. Mix drove on for a distance of about 600 feet and then stopped. I got out of my car and walked toward the other machine. Mix was standing beside his car and pulling at a broken step. I asked him for his name and he said:

"You have my number."

"Mix did not ask if anybody was hurt, or if we needed any assistance."

Sayre admitted on cross-examination that he did not ask for any assistance or intimate to Mix that anyone in his machine had been hurt.

Asked whether he could identify Mix at the time, Sayre said that he could not. He said that when he checked up on the registration number and found the car belonged to Tom Mix he then knew that it was the movie actor himself.

"I had a mental impression as I have seen him several times in the pictures," Sayre said.

Mrs. Sayre Testifies
Mrs. Sayre, a very stout woman, followed her husband on the stand. Asked if she had ever seen Mix before, she said that she had seen him only on the screen.

"Didn't you see him when he passed the intersection in his car?" she was asked.

"He was going so fast you couldn't see him," was the answer.

Mrs. Sayre said that she and her husband were traveling about 15 miles an hour just before they reached the intersection, and that they slowed down at that point. She said that she was excited, nervous and suffering from shock immediately after the accident.

Mrs. Sayre stated that she was assisted to the Valencia oil station and that, looking out of a window, she saw Mix's car after it had been stopped about 600 yards down the highway. She said that she saw Mix pull something off his machine and

EVIDENCE FAILS AS FILM ACTOR FACES COURT AT HEARING

United Press Leased Wire

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Tom Mix, rough-riding picture star and director, today was given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Cox on a felony charge of failing to stop and render aid following an automobile collision in which he figured on Friday, September 3.

After hearing several witnesses on both sides Judge Cox decided the issue in Mix's favor, dismissing the case. Mix shook hands with Judge Cox and told him that if he ever got into Los Angeles to be sure and pay him a visit.

R. T. Quinn of Los Angeles, was attorney for Mix. Deputy District Attorney Roland Thompson represented the state.

The accident occurred late in the afternoon on the La Habra Brea boulevard near the Valencia oil station.

Mix, accompanied by his wife and Eva Novak, Fox star, was on his way from Balboa to Los Angeles.

Charles O. Sayre, a rancher, who resides two miles east of Yorba Linda, accompanied by his wife, drove out of a side road upon the main highway. His car struck Mix's machine on the right side. Both cars were badly damaged.

Charge Not Sustained, Ruling
Judge Cox held that the specific charge that Mix did not stop and that he refused to render aid was not substantiated by the testimony. The testimony of all parties concerned showed that Mix did not stop. And Mix, his wife and Miss Novak, declared that he inquired if anybody had been hurt and if he could render any assistance.

The preliminary hearing attracted a crowd of about 300 to the courtroom. About half of those present were women and girls. Many small boys peeped through the windows to get a glimpse of their screen favorite.

Four Suspects Jailed as Big Manhunt on For Others in Gang

STORE'S PROPRIETOR KILLED BY MEXICANS

Murder Band Loots Establishment of $800; Border Tactics Used

One man is dead, another is in the county hospital, probably fatally wounded, and four others are in the county jail here today as the result of the robbery of a general merchandise store at Delhi about 8:30 o'clock last night.

According to the authorities, at least ten men, all of whom are said to be Mexicans, participated in the raid on the Delhi store. Officers were searching today for several other suspects and predicted that three or four more would be arrested.

The man killed was John Khoury, 38, a Syrian. The wounded man is Isaac Matouk, 62, also a Syrian and uncle of the dead man. Khoury and Matouk were joint owners of the Delhi store.

First word of the shooting was telephoned the sheriff's office by R. Hernandez, also a storekeeper at Delhi. Under Sheriff E. E. French and Deputy Sheriffs Roy Ballard and Herman J. Zabel hurried to the scene in an automobile.

Finds Doors Locked
French said that when they reached the place all doors were locked. Ballard used his flashlight and saw the form of a man lying on the floor just inside the rear door. The officers then forced the door open.

Khoury lay dead on the floor and Matouk lay on a bed in an adjoining room. He was unconscious and bleeding profusely. The cash drawer was open and there was evidence of a struggle. A son of the wounded man told Sheriff C. E. Jackson today that his father was robbed of at least $800.

Lying on a cot at the county hospital, Matouk today told the authorities that ten or twelve men entered the store at the same time. He said that some of them came in from the rear entrance and the rest through the front door. Four men, according to Matouk, attacked him and the others grabbed Khoury. Several shots rang out. Matouk was struck over the head with the butt of a throw it to one side.

At least fifty machines stopped at the scene of the accident in the course of 15 minutes, according to Mrs. Sayre.

W. McKay, a shipbuilder of Bremerton, Wash., and the first motorist to arrive on the scene of the accident, testified that Mix passed him at a high rate of speed about 1000 feet from the intersection.

40 Miles An Hour, Claim

"He was going at least 40 miles an hour at the intersection," said McKay. "I stopped about 50 feet from the other side of the intersection and inquired if the woman in the car was hurt. I then followed Sayre toward Mix's car. Mix appeared to be angry and refused to give his name. Mr. Sayre asked him for it twice. Mix did not offer any assistance, nor did I hear him ask if anyone had been hurt."

Mrs. Alma Myers, wife of Traffic Officer Vernon Myers, and proprietor of the traffic school, testified that Mix's attorney closely questioned Mrs. Myers as to her knowledge of speeding cars.

Quinn declared himself to be a little dense on speed laws and stated that he came here for information.

"Well, you've come to the right place," said Deputy District Attorney Thompson.

William D. Tuimex, of Los Angeles, the last witness for the prosecution, testified that he picked up an aluminum step which Mix tore from his car and threw away.

Mix on Stand.

The state rested and then Attorney Quinn called Mix to the stand. He said that he was traveling north in a white Stutz car, with a right-hand drive and outside emergency brake.

"I saw the other car approaching the intersection," said Mix. "The driver appeared to be hesitating. I thought he saw me and I went into the intersection. Suddenly his car seemed to leap forward. I saw he was about to hit me so I 'scotched' on it and tried to dodge him, but he hit me in the center. Mr. Sayre was driving west. It was late in the afternoon and the sun must have been shining in his face."

"A spare wheel on the right side of my car is what saved my arm," continued Mix. "I had my right hand on the emergency brake when the crash came. The brake is directly back of the spare wheel."

"I stopped my car about 400 feet beyond the intersection and got out. I saw the other man coming toward me. He did not appear to be the least bit excited. I asked him if anybody had been hurt and he said no. He then said to Mrs. Mix, who was seated in my car, 'I never saw you.' Mrs. Mix told him if he couldn't see a white car he ought not to be driving a machine on the highway."

Mix was asked if Sayre asked for assistance. He answered that he did not think that he did.

Would Have Aided.

Quinn then asked Mix what he would have done had anybody been hurt and Mix answered that he would have rendered every aid possible. He said that he was very considerate in disposition, that he loved his fellowmen and that he had a lot of horses and dogs which he had trained. And he said that he was very fond of these animals.

"The man asked me if I wanted his name and number," said Mix. "I told him no, that it wouldn't do me any good."

Mrs. Mix followed her husband on the stand.

MURDER CHARGE FILED AGAINST ARBUCKLE

He had arisen early this morning at the determined importunities of Albert Martin, his cellmate, dressed carefully in his natty green golf suit, washed his ruddy face until it shined—using soap borrowed from Martin—and then had ordered breakfast for himself and his cellmate.

Then he treated Martin to a shave before he had a massage himself.

But there was where luxury ended. The gong sounded for morning lineup of prisoners. "Fatty" lined up.

"Roscoe Arbuckle, murder," read the sergeant.

"Step out of line!" he was ordered as he answered. And he slouched into the corner with a group of men charged with felonies awaiting the call to court.

"Fatty" to Be "Mugged"

While awaiting the call to court Arbuckle was informed that Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson had ordered his Bertillon measurements, finger prints and photograph taken for the rogue's gallery.

During an hour, while he was waiting his turn before the police judge, Arbuckle was permitted to confer with his attorneys in a room above the police court. Policemen guarded the door of the room.

A long stream of petty criminals, including numerous drug addicts, filed through the police court mill.

At 11 a. m. it was announced Arbuckle's case would probably be reached in about five minutes.

Fifteen cameras were set up in corners and the aisles of the courtroom to snap Arbuckle when he should enter.

As Arbuckle stood awaiting the opening of the jail door for the trip to court, Andrew J. Larsen, charged with petty larceny, was on his right, and Archie Murphy, charged with burglary, on his left.

About twenty men were in the group.

Meanwhile a big crowd, about half women, was gathering in Judge O'Brien's police court chambers.

Proceedings Perfunctory

It was understood that Arbuckle's appearance in police court was carried out as a formality.

Early today District Attorney Matthew Brady announced that indictment of the film comedian, on a charge of first degree murder, would be asked of the San Francisco grand jury tonight.

"I will be before the jury sufficient evidence to warrant a return of such an indictment, making unnecessary the holding of a preliminary hearing," Brady said.

The defense and prosecution had agreed, it was understood, that today's proceedings would be merely perfunctory and that Arbuckle's case would be continued until after the grand jury investigation tonight and probably until after the inquest.

Twenty-two witnesses have been summoned to appear before the grand jury.

Not one of the guests at last Monday's party, which preceded Miss Rappe's death, could be found today—except by detectives.

Captain of Detectives Duncan Matheson admitted that while they had not been detained, they had been ordered into hiding and were under the watch of representatives of his department.

Matheson admitted this was being done in order to prevent them from meeting representatives of the defense before they appear before the grand jury.

Federal Probe Starts

Federal authorities turned attention to the case today.

"We intend to find out where the liquor served at Arbuckle's party came from," Deputy Prohibition Agent Thomas Brown announced.

Shortly after 9 o'clock Captain of Detectives Matheson called the morning lineup of prisoners, preparatory to opening the police court. Out of the felony cells trooped a long line of shuffling prisoners—Arbuckle among them.

The roll-call started.

"Roscoe Arbuckle, murder," read the sergeant.

"Yes, sir," answered "Fatty."

"Step out of line!" was the order. Arbuckle, hands in pockets, slouched over from the line to the group of prisoners standing with guards awaiting their call into court.

Two major statements were secured during the past twenty-four hours by the police.

Gives More Details

One of these was an amplification of her previous statement by Mrs. Maud Delmont, in which she related additional details of the alleged fatal party.

Arbuckle's friends said it was of interest to them that in this statement Mrs. Delmont said that when Arbuckle left the room and she entered, Miss Rappe was lying on the bed and tore the cuffs from her shirtwaist. They said this helped substantiate Arbuckle's claim that she became "hysterical" and began tearing off her clothes.

The prosecution, however, declared the point was of minor importance.

The other major statement was from Al Semacher. He said he was a guest at Arbuckle's apartment Monday afternoon and described seeing Miss Rappe there. He said he had left the room and was gone half an hour. When he returned women members of the party were giving Miss Rappe a cold bath. He then told of how a physician was called. He had heard the girl moaning, he said.

"I am going to die," he said she cried. She had complained of pain in her chest, according to Semacher.

Arbuckle slept better last night than he did the night following his arrest.

Before the doors were locked last night Arbuckle asked that some one be assigned to his cell with him. He was given his choice and selected Albert Martin, a laborer, accused of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Arbuckle told jailors he was too lonesome to stay alone.

Eats Hearty Breakfast

On arising this morning he ordered a hearty breakfast of boiled eggs, toast, coffee and marmalade. He seemed refreshed from his night's sleep, there was no sign of his famous smile to be seen, even playing around the corners of his mouth. Lines were appearing in his big, round face.

He refused to talk, even with his cellmate, or jailors, regarding any phase of his case, jail authorities said. Late yesterday he had sent Chief of Police O'Brien a written request that none but Attorneys Charles Brennan, Frank Dominguez and Milton Cohen and Lou Anger, his personal manager, and assistant, be permitted to see him.

A little later he made verbal request for more comfortable furnishings for his cell. The request was refused.

He held a long conference last night with his lawyers and permitted a photograph to be taken.

Arbuckle wired to Los Angeles for additional clothing and laid aside his natty golf suit which he was wearing when arrested.

The cell being without accommodations for any extensive wardrobe, he put in half an hour last night manufacturing coat hangers out of a piece of wire which he had found.

Mrs. Spreckels in Case

Mrs. Sydia Wirt Spreckels, widow of the late John D. Spreckels, came into the case today. It was learned she was an old friend of Miss Rappe, and had called on her here just before her death. It was Mrs. Spreckels who first wired the news of Miss Rappe's illness and death to Henry Lehrman, Miss Rappe's sponsor on the screen and her reported fiancé, who is in New York.

"Oh, her eyes were staring so," Mrs. Spreckels said in describing Miss Rappe's appearance a few hours before she died.

Arbuckle's stepmother, Mrs. W. J. Arbuckle, of San Jose, was reported from San Jose today to have said that Arbuckle never aided her nor her family, and that she will take no part in his defense.

Dr. S. P. Strange, acting city autopsy surgeon, filed a supplemental report with the police today on the results of the autopsy. He declared eleven bruises were found upon Miss Rappe's body. This was in conflict with the statement of Dr. M. E. Russell, who performed the first autopsy and declared he had found but one bruise.

The Arbuckle case drew much attention from the pulpits of churches in the San Francisco bay district last night.

"The shame of it all is," said the Rev. John Snape, of the First Baptist church, Oakland, "that good people, like you in this congregation, make possible the existence of such a man."

New Affidavit

Another statement was added to the long list of affidavits in the case today by Miss Vera Victoria Cumberland, nurse, who assisted Mrs. Jean Jameson in caring for Miss Rappe.

"Miss Rappe suffered intensely," she said, "I never have seen anyone suffer so."

"She claimed that while the party was at its height Arbuckle whispered something to her, caught her by the arm and pulled her into his room."

Miss Cumberland said Miss Rappe told her she could not remember what happened within the room.

"It was when the other members of the party burst into the room where she was lying on the bed that Miss Rappe regained her senses," Miss Cumberland claimed. "She said they then immersed her in cold water."

Miss Cumberland said Miss Rappe expressed fear that Henry Lehrman would learn of her plight.

Detective Captain Matheson announced early today that "we have a complete case against Roscoe Arbuckle. The charge against the comedian is, causing the death of a human being while engaged or attempting to engage in the commission of a felony. Under the California law this is first degree murder."

Jury to Get Details

Matheson announced that every detail of what occurred at Arbuckle's "boozing party" at the St. Francis, during which Arbuckle's alleged assault on Miss Rappe is said to have taken place, would be laid before the grand jury. Statements in the form of affidavits have been obtained from every person who was at the party, he said.

"All the affidavits of those present dovetail completely," Matheson said. "There is no disagreement as to what took place. We have a complete case against Arbuckle, including statements as to what occurred behind locked doors of his bedroom."

"We will present the strongest evidence to show that gross and criminal brutality was responsible for Miss Rappe's death."

All those who attended the fatal party will be called before the grand jury as witnesses. Arbuckle will also be summoned but it is doubtful whether he will testify as his attorneys have warned him to keep his mouth shut.

Arbuckle looked pale and there were lines of worry in his pale face as he rose today after his second night spent in a cell.

The famous comedian, who has made millions laugh, merely shook his head wearily when he was asked to make a statement. He evidently is anxious to defend himself in print, but his chief counsel, Frank Dominguez, has issued absolute orders against him uttering a word.

Arbuckle's smile, which has not flitted across his face for several days, now. In his cell he looked like a different person from the person whose film antics made him known all the world over.

Two other women witnesses were being sought by the police today to testify against Arbuckle. They are believed to have been in his hotel suite at least a part of the time during the alleged "wild party."

Their evidence will throw the last ray of light on what promises to be the biggest "scandal in movie history" on record.

Others, who attended Arbuckle's party last Monday afternoon, were, according to the police:

Ira G. Fortiouis, New York, a salesman.

Alice Blake, a San Francisco cafe singer.

Mrs. Maud Delmont of Los Angeles, a friend of Miss Rappe.

Lovell Sherman of Los Angeles, moving picture actor.

Fred Fishback of Los Angeles, a moving picture director.

Al Semacher, manager of Miss Rappe.

Miss Zey Pyron, a San Francisco show girl.

Miss Rappe, who was a native of Chicago, who has been prominent on the stage and as a model since 1913.

In that year in Chicago she announced she was earning $4000 as a model.

'Nighties Tango' Recalled

The next year she and another girl are said to have presented a "nighties tango" on the liner Baltic, en route to Europe. In 1915 she started Paris by appearing on the streets with fur anklets, pink pantaloons showing below her skirts and carrying armfuls of fruit instead of flowers. In 1917 she went into the movies. Two of her pictures were "The Punch of the Irish" and "The Twilight Baby."

Her parents are dead and she lived with a housekeeper in a bungalow in Los Angeles, living on an income from oil property.

Her body has been ordered shipped to Los Angeles for interment.

While the defense was keeping silent, details of the evidence that will be laid before the grand jury were divulged by the prosecution today.

It will be alleged, it was learned, that Arbuckle and Miss Rappe were alone together for some time during the party between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. (This was denied by

They came for credit--- they found much more

The two ambitious young partners were facing big problems in their business. Additional credit was necessary, so they came to the First National Bank. They were invited to talk over their affairs frankly with our officers, men whose judgment and knowledge have been gained from many years' experience with all sorts of business tangles.

When the two young men left they had their credit---the balance they carried justified that. They had something more valuable, too---advice which caused some changes of policy and led to increased growth and greater profits for them.

If you feel that your business would be benefited by the experienced counsel of our officers, come in and talk it over.

FLOOD HORROR'S DEATH TOLL TO BE 100, FEAR

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 12.—Fifty bodies recovered, thirty-six persons injured and twenty missing is the known toll of life of Friday night's flood which swept this city, according to official figures, given out today. The property loss was officially announced by the chamber of commerce as $8,000,000, following a careful survey of the entire flooded area.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 12.—The dead in the flood terror in Central Texas will total more than 100, according to reports received here from the stricken area.

Bodies of forty-seven victims of the floods of Friday and Saturday have been recovered at San Antonio. Relief work is now under way and clearing of wreckage, under which more bodies may be found, has started.

Reports from Taylor stated thirty Mexicans had been drowned on the farm of J. M. Bowren, ten miles from that city. Five were reported dead at Calvert and Bryan. Georgetown dispatches announced the death of two. Six negroes are known dead at Hearne.

Wharton, where last reports stated that the Colorado river was still rising, has one known dead and several are missing. It was impossible to place the exact estimate on property damages. Indications, however from meager reports are that it will run into the millions, because of the loss of livestock and farm buildings. Fear was expressed today for the southern part of the state, through which the mad waters which damaged Central Texas must pass.

20 FLOOD VICTIMS' BODIES RECOVERED AT TAYLOR

TAYLOR, Texas, Sept. 12.—Bodies of twenty victims of Friday's and Saturday's storm and resultant floods had been recovered here today.

No one was willing to estimate how many more victims there were here. Reports from surrounding territory showed confusion, with damage running high and communication demoralized.

BURGLARS WORK WHILE POLICE STAND WATCH

VENTURA, Sept. 12.—While two deputy sheriffs kept watch through the night, thieves entered the Cummings jewelry store some time between midnight and 6 o'clock and made away with jewelry valued at $400.

The officers had been told that the burglary would be attempted, but the two who were put on the job failed to arrest the men.

It is said to be the work of local young men, and warrants have been issued for the arrest of a pair whose names are being withheld by the officers.

SINN FEIN NOTE OF ACCEPTANCE IS FORWARDED

United Press Leased Wire
DUBLIN, Sept. 12.—Sinn Fein's reply, to the British invitation to a conference at Inverness September 20, was forwarded to Lloyd George today, it was officially announced here. The note of the Dail Eireann accepts the British premier's invitation.

It was reliably reported here today that Sinn Fein's delegation to Inverness, September 20, would be President Eamonn De Valera, Arthur Griffith, Robert Barton, Professor MacNeill and Erskine Childers.

The presence of De Valera at the head of the Sinn Fein plenipotentiaries will occasion surprise in view of the fact that he was authoritatively reported to have ceded his place to Griffith.

All interned Sinn Feiners may be released before the proposed conference, between the British cabinet committee and Sinn Fein plenipotentiaries at Inverness, it was reported today.

Following the speech of Michael Collins, in which the Republican commander-in-chief declared there were still 15,000 Irish men, women and children suffering because more than 5,000 Sinn Feiners were still held in internment camps, the report spread that the British command in Ireland was considering wholesale releases.

REPLY REPORTED CONTAINING RESERVATION

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The reply of the Dail Eireann accepting the British invitation to a conference at Inverness, September 20, which was forwarded today, includes a reservation regarding the allegiance of Ireland to the British crown, the Evening News stated today.

The British cabinet's invitation expressly stipulated that Ireland's remaining within the empire was a basic condition of the conference.

GARDNER FAR FROM ISLE, SAY RANCHERS

United Press Leased Wire
TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 12.—Roy Gardner is believed to have sallied forth over the week-end to furnish more excitement for Warden Thomas Maloney's guards, who have been trying to capture him since last Monday when he escaped from McNeil Island federal prison.

The fugitive bandit was reported to have been rescued by Charles McLean, prison guard, Sunday morning at daybreak. McLean shot six times at the shadowy figure, believed to be the missing convict. None of the shots are thought to have taken effect.

McLean also reported having seen a figure on the road between the penitentiary and Gettrude, a small community on the south side of the island, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning.

Gardner is also believed to have been in the chicken house of Ben Hannem some time Sunday. Hannem has more than 900 chickens and it was impossible to check up whether any are missing.

The search for Gardner is being renewed with vigor now, since the bandit has been reported seen on the island for three consecutive nights.

Although Warden Maloney and several of the searchers are convinced that the fugitive has not left the island, many of the island ranchers who have been working as extra guards and have been keeping close tab on the manhunt, declare that Gardner would have been a fool not to have reached the mainland several days ago.

They expect that he will be captured hundreds of miles from here.

CHILE WARNS LEAGUE TO KEEP HANDS OFF

United Press Leased Wire
GENEVA, Sept. 12.—An apparent settlement of the dispute between Chile and Bolivia over their 1904 treaty and agreement by the delegates of the former country to have the league of nations arbitrate the matter, was rendered futile this afternoon by insistence of the Chilean plenipotentiaries that they would fight attempts by the assembly to interfere in the dispute.

It had been previously agreed in private conference between Chilean and Bolivian delegates that the question should come up Thursday.

Dr. Wellington Koo, on behalf of the league, today addressed a formal note to the allies, stating that while the recent United States note on the subject of mandates marked progress in the matter it was still unsettled. He urged that the allies and the United States complete their agreement immediately and enable the league council to issue its mandates before the assembly adjourned.

The note was sent to England, France, Japan and Italy individually.

Estimated cost of building and machinery is $60,000. Edwards & Willey of Los Angeles are the contractors. A. G. Bailey of Los Angeles is the architect.

GOLF GAME, MOTORING TRIP, THEATER VISIT HARDING'S PROGRAM

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12.—A golf game at the Sea View club and a motor trip to New York, where he will attend the theater, was President Harding's program today.

Late tonight the president will board the Mayflower at New York and start back to his desk at Washington for a week of hard work preparatory to the reconvening of congress, which is to act on some of the most important administrative measures.

HUNDREDS RETURN TO TAMPICO OIL FIELDS

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 12.—Wholesale resumption of work in the Tampico oil district is reported in dispatches from that city. Hundreds of workers are returning to the petroleum fields, where operations have been resumed as a result of the agreement between large American oil companies and the Mexican government, reached last week.

Production taxes, which covered levies made on oil held in storage by American companies in Mexico, were paid by a majority of the companies yesterday, according to an unofficial statement to the newspaper Excelsior.

MANY 'SLAVES' SOLD

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—More than a score of "slaves" were sold on historic Boston common. Urban Le-doux, head of the "Church of the Unemployed," sold to the highest bidder the services of many jobless men who stood on the auction block like slaves while the people, pressing close on all sides, shouted offers.

2 MORE HELD IN CHICAGO AUTO MEN'S DEATH

United Press Leased Wire
CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Search for accomplices of Harvey Church in the fiendish murder of Bernard J. Daugherty and Carl Ausmus, Packard Motor company salesmen, netted two suspects today.

Church confessed to binding and then beating his two victims to death to obtain a $5,400 Packard De Luxe. Conflicting statements led police to believe he did not commit the crime unaided as he first stated.

Daugherty's mangled body was found in the Desplaines river. His wrists had been handcuffed. Ausmus' battered body was found buried, face downward, in Church's garage.

The confessed murderer said he killed the men because "some one had threatened to kill his father, mother and sister if he did not produce a touring car."

Police said he killed the salesmen to obtain the car, in which he wanted to show off at Adams, Wis., his home town, where he was arrested.

TO INVOKE OLD LAW

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 12.—Under an almost forgotten and rarely used Colorado law, two brothers will be charged in criminal court with non-support of their father. The brothers are A. L. and John Keister. The law states that adult children, if financially able, are liable for the support of aged or infirm parents. Keister is an aged cripple.

Entertains at Dinner Complimenting Two of Season's Brides-to-be

A prettily-appointed five-course dinner, heralding the approaching marriages of two popular debutantes was given by Mrs. C. Squires, at her pretty home on Pacific avenue, Tustin, on Friday evening.

The honor guests were Miss Kathleen Tucker, who is to wed Mr. Earl W. Hall, salesman for the Nichols-Loomis company, on September 25, and Miss Adah Ruth Squires, daughter of the hostess, who is to wed on October 12, Mr. Jerry C. Phillips, a prominent young business man of Wilmington.

During the evening the two happy young brides-to-be were each presented with huge baskets filled with beautiful and useful gifts for their new homes.

Miss Irene Aubashon entertained with several pretty vocal solos, accompanied by Miss Ida Gerken at the piano.

Dinner covers were laid for the following:

The Misses Adah Ruth Squires, Kathleen Tucker, Mmes. W. H. St. Clair, Earl Shoemaker, Eddie Squires, and the Misses Ida Gerken, Irene Aubashon, Oreole Hoe, Helen Pierpont, Marie Larson, Dickie Dixon, Ruth Richards, Jessie Anderson, Grace Squires and Ruth Beach and the hostess.

Miscellaneous Shower for Miss Tournat

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Harper of Garden Grove, entertained at a charming affair last Tuesday night, honoring Miss Georgia Tournat and Mr. Evan Tibbles of Santa Ana, who were married on Thursday.

The affair was a surprise miscellaneous shower. The lights were turned out and at 9 p. m. the couple entered to be greeted with a cheer from the crowd. After they had fully recovered the bride-elect was put at the head of a line of girls and ordered to march to the well and draw a pail of water.

The "well" had been built in one corner of the living-room, and was realistically covered with vines and roses. When Miss Tournat finally drew up the large heavy "wild oaken bucket," it was discovered instead of holding water, filled to overflowing with dainty packages, which the couple opened at once, with many expressions of delight. They received many handsome gifts.

Former Illinois Friends Gather for Reunion in Santa Ana

The J. E. Gowen home, 928 Spurgeon street, was the scene of a pleasant week-end house party when Mr. and Mrs. Gowen entertained a group of friends formerly closely associated in their native state of Illinois.

The group included the Rev. James R. Stead and Mrs. Stead, their daughter Sylvia and sons, Franklin and "Jimmy," now of Pomona, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson and son, Ford, of Glendora.

The Rev. Mr. Stead was pastor of the Congregational church in Illinois where the other members of the party worshipped. He and Mrs. Stead and their family have been located more recently in Seattle, where the Rev. Mr. Stead was pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, until a nervous breakdown caused him to resign and come to Southern California to rest and recuperate.

On Saturday evening, the party was joined by the Rev. F. E. Schrock and Mrs. Schrock and their young daughter, Mary, and son, Frederick, at the pleasant home of Dr. J. E. Paul, where, with Dr. and Mrs. Paul and their daughter, Miss Mildred Paul and their son, Cassius, a merry picnic supper was held.

The Rev. Mr. Stead has a number of friends in Santa Ana who will welcome the announcement that he has decided to make California his home.

GEORGE W. MYRICK
George W. Myrick was born in Kenosha county, Wisconsin, September 3, 1844. He departed this life in Santa Ana, Cal., September 7, 1921. He was married August 20, 1868, to Mary J. Magill. To this union were born nine children, five of whom are living: Herbert W. Myrick, Mrs. Lena A. Hamilton of Bakersfield, Cal., Mrs. May Hoskinson of Stafford, Kan., Charlie Myrick of Topeka, Kan., George Myrick of Torrance, Cal. He is also survived by his wife and three brothers.

Mr. Myrick was in the service of his country during the Civil war. When 17 years of age he enlisted in the navy, where he remained for fifteen months; then he enlisted in the 43rd Wisconsin Infantry, where he remained until the close of the war.

Mr. Myrick was a public official in Nemaha county, Kansas, where he made his home for about forty years, moving there from Wisconsin in 1869. In this county in Kansas he served in the capacity of commissioner of justice and of peace and proved himself a friend to all and his worth as a public official.

He came to California in 1907, where he has since made his home. While he was not affiliated with any church, he was a professed Christian.

His old comrades and citizens of our city feel the loss of this man from the community, and express to the family their sincere sympathy.

Mr. Ladue, who is in charge of the state fish and game commission, was out fishing today. He caught a large fish, which he found to be a barrel of moonshine. The two men who were with him when he caught the fish were arrested.

THE PATCHWORK QUILT HAVE YOU A PIECE TO PUT IN IT?

By ELEANOR ELLIOTT SONG.
Said gay young John to his Sweetheart Sue,
Let me kiss you on your dimple,—if your love is true.
Said Sweetheart Sue, to the gay young John,
"I never had a dimple, that the sun shone on."
Said gay young John to his sweet-heart, "Speak!"
Isn't that a dimple there upon your cheek?"
Said Sweetheart Sue to her gay young John,
"That is a mole that your gaze rests on."
Said John as he kissed her, "Beyond a doubt,
A mole is a dimple,—wrong side out!"

THREE CHEERS for Dr. Ruby Cunningham, University of California. Her price is far above rubies. We quote her thus:
"Attractiveness is the duty of every girl. Far from interfering with intellectual development half an hour every morning devoted to cultivation of personal charm gives a woman a freshness and self-confidence that sharpens her mental faculties."

WHAT COLOR is your soul?
For many years, delvers into psychic mysteries have maintained that we are surrounded by our souls as by an aura, and that these souls take on certain colors according to the chief characteristics of their owners. Or does anyone own his own soul?
"I am the master of my fate, I am the captain of my soul," sang Henley, triumphantly, so we will take his word for it and continue.
For the psychics go even further, and declare that these auras harmonize or clash in color with the auras of those with whom we come in contact, so that these are our friends and comrades, or our worst enemies.
Husbands and wives, then, would have auras that complement each other, pink and blue, perhaps, or purple and gold, if they are of tender nature. And it might be equally safe to presume that where the divorce court steps in, a spiritual spectroscope would reveal that the husband's aura was perchance a rich, dark red, while the wife was surrounded with one of the popular tomato shades. Or, perhaps, he was a tobacco brown and she was depressingly grey.
What a subject for one of our justly celebrated popular songs! "When you were an aura, a pink-rosy-aura, And I wore one of Alice-blue" or "He laid away an aura gray, to don the union blue." And what a field for the dry-cleaning establishments and the manufacturers of the popular little soaps that dye as they clean!
"Auras cleaned while you wait," or "Souls, steam-cleaned or dry cleaned, inquire within." Then the fascination of using a spiritual "rit" and having a slightly soiled and faded, flesh-colored soul, come out of its bath all shining and

Former S. A. Girl and Orange Man Wed at Riverside

The young couple will live at Villa Park, where the groom is associated with the packing house there.

DREAM THAT NEVER CAME TRUE.

Oh it isn't easy to say goodbye to the dream that never came true,
For you made my dream, and still I sigh for the hours that were sweetest with you.
Had you only told me your love was cold as you left me under the moon,
But you went your way with a step so bold and a promise to come to me soon.
The sky gleamed red with a sunset glow as I waited all in vain.
My heart's love welled in an overflow which left but the dregs of pain—
For you broke my heart as you passed my way with your smile and the things you said;
And bitter the tears that I shed today for the beautiful dream that is dead.

WILD ANIMALS I HAVEN'T KNOWN: The Otter.

Oh I ought to have an otter
They're as cute as they can be,
And I would that I could utter
How I long for all I see.
For a natty little otter
Coming at my call and beck,
Could be trained to keep me hotter
Just by curling round my neck!

FROM PIT AT COSTA MESA

A deposit of decomposed granite on the Banning-Norris property at Costa Mesa is proving a mine for those interested in betterment of roads in the Costa Mesa, Fairview and Delhi districts.

"Between five and six miles of roads will be surfaced with the material this year," said County Engineer J. L. McBride today. "Hitherto graveling and surfacing dirt roads in the vicinity to the south and southwest of Santa Ana has been expensive. The use of decomposed granite was prohibitive by reason of the cost of transportation. Now we are getting it close at hand."

The county has entered into a contract with a steam shovel owner, and is loading the material and spreading it on roads at the rate of 300 yards a day.

Nat Neff, of the engineering department, said that there is some clay with the decomposed granite.

The materials now being taken out of the new pit are being used at Costa Mesa. McBride said that during the coming winter a good deal of it would be used in the Delhi district.

TRACTOR UNDER HARD
TEST AT FACTORIES

Thousands of acres of land between the Rogue river plant and the Dearborn plant of the Ford Motor company were plowed up by Ford employees in experimental work on the Fordson tractor before the tractor was placed on the market, according to Joe Stout, of Knox and Stout, Ford representatives here.

The machine is the development of practical demonstration in the field and not a theoretical result of the laboratory, according to Stout. "Laboratory and mechanical work were of course necessary, but through the years of experimenting, the actual progress was really made out on those acres of average land that lay between the Rouge and Dearborn plants."

"Those acres have been farmed with the aid of tractors for years. Today almost every conceivable major operation is performed with the aid of a Fordson."

"Not only hundreds, but actually thousands of acres were prepared, and these same acres have been producing wheat, not alone this year, but every year for several years."

"A small army of tractors, each one pulling a two-bottom plow, made the first stage of the seed-bed preparation quickly possible. Other Fordson implements finished this preparation on a schedule which precluded the possibility of a delayed crop."

SHRINERS INVITED TO FLINT BARBECUE

Shriners in Orange county today were receiving invitations from Frank P. Flint, Los Angeles, to be his guest at the Shriners Country club Saturday of this week, when he will entertain Shriners in a lavish manner. The grounds are about fourteen miles from Los Angeles, and two miles west of Pasadena.

The big time will start at 8 o'clock in the morning with a golf tournament. A barbecue will be the big feature at noon. In the afternoon there will be field sports in addition to several high-class boxing exhibitions of four rounds each, wrestling and racing. Silver trophies will be given by Flint.

The invitations are being received by those who are members of Al Malaikah, but Shriners sojourning in Southern California will be welcome.

It is expected that between 3000 and 4000 Shriners will be present.

Funeral services for Mrs. Myrtle E. Smith, who died at her home in Costa Mesa on September 8, were held Saturday afternoon from Smith and Tutthill's chapel, at 2 o'clock.

The Rev. L. O. Bostwick, of the Methodist church at Newport, read the service, and Mr. James Nuckolls sang, "There's a Land that is Fairer than Day," and "Haven of Rest."

CIVIC ENDORSEMENT

The Auto Club of Southern California is making no attempt to secure endorsement of chambers of commerce and other organizations in its controversy with the state highway, so far as is known to D. Eymann Huff, one of the Orange county members of the advisory board of the club, according to a statement made by him today.

"I am a member of the advisory board and were the club conducting a campaign such as has been intimated in recent newspaper articles, I think I would know of it," declared Huff today. "Certainly no effort is being made by the club in Orange county to secure endorsement of its activities by chambers of commerce and other organizations."

MERRY 'OLD SPORTS'
BRING HOME VENISON

George Huntington and four other "old sports" were home today from a ten days' deer hunting trip, with stories that their friends are making them eligible to membership in the Ananias club. With Huntington on the trip were W. E. Thomas, of this city; J. E. Durkee, of Anaheim, and C. E. Palmateer and J. O. Legrande, of Tulare county.

The scene of their operations was at Rabbit Meadows, on the north slope of "Old Baldy," in Tulare county. Durkee and Legrande were the "big injuns" of the quintette, for each brought down a deer.

As the story goes, Huntington was prohibited from hunting because he had taken with him a gun of the vintage of the 70's. It is a powerful weapon and a "scatter gun" in the full sense of the word. It was considered too dangerous to the life of other members of the company and Huntington was permitted to take the weapon along by being assigned to the culinary department and made secretary of the party so that proper tab might be kept on results.

The first assault on the fleet-footed browsers in the Meadow came on the morning of September 1, when Durkee and Legrande took a commanding position on a lookout rock and Palmateer nosed around the mountains in quest of game.

Palmateer jumped up a big buck. He fired and—well—the buck kept moving, and moved until he arrived within about 200 feet of Durkee and Legrande and halted to browse, with a broadside exposure to the two hunters. Legrande and Durkee opened up with their artillery. Legrande, in his first shot, fired over the target, while Durkee's first missile of death was short and low. The second shot from Legrande's "Howitzer" knocked the deer down. The animal lay on the ground kicking and Legrande and Durkee ran up to him, Legrande with knife in hand. As Legrande prepared to end the struggles of the animal with a knife, the deer jumped up and bounded away. Both hunters were so surprised that they did not have the presence of mind to shoot at the disappearing deer, according to the statement of Palmateer, made upon his return to the camp of the hunters.

Refreshed by a hearty lunch prepared by Huntington, Durkee, Legrande and Palmateer renewed their battle against the inhabitants of the Meadow. They jumped another deer, Durkee being within thirty feet of the animal. It was said that it was hard to tell which was the most surprised, the deer or Durkee, but Durkee banded away and down went the deer. The animal fell with the first shot, but Durkee was determined to make sure of his game and kept shooting until he emptied the magazine of his rifle.

A cipher marked the results for the next two days, so far as a kill was concerned. It is said that Legrande shot high, Durkee too low and Palmateer behind. Thomas made truthful reports of observations of the active hunters.

The morning of September 5 Durkee started out alone and returning about 3 o'clock out of breath startled his companions by the recital of his discovery that he had been in that immediate vicinity. He had come upon fresh tracks about four miles from camp, and it is said that as soon as he made the discovery he sought the protection of the camp. He declared that he was not hunting bear—that he was after deer.

Legrande killed a fine buck on Tuesday of last week and that ended the "killing season" for the quintette.

The "old sports" declare that they had a wonderful time, that the hunt was a big success and that they expect to repeat it annually for the next twenty-five years.

SEEK MORE BODIES
IN BRIDGE HORROR

CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 12.—This city was plunged in sorrow today as the Chester river was being dragged for additional bodies of the estimated twenty-five or thirty persons who lost their lives when a footpath over the stream collapsed Saturday night.

More than twenty bodies had been recovered within an hour and a half after the collapse of the footpath.

It was estimated that more than a score of persons were injured.

The disaster occurred when a crowd assembled on the structure to watch the police grapple for the body of a 5-year-old boy who was drowned about half an hour before.

What will your store-room, attic, or cellar yield?

"New" Furniture—at the cost of a can of Paint or Varnish. Have you rummaged lately in your store-room, cellar or attic—to re-discover some good furniture that's there?

Do it—this week, "Rummage Week."

Many pieces of furniture are OLD only on the surface! Underneath there is material that's just as good as new—you need merely paint to have "new things."

We make a special product for every paint, varnish or enamel job—and we make the kind that "novices" can use and get the right results.

Buy a can of each of the products described below. Make your "old" furniture new again—dig into that secluded store-room, bring out those pieces that you may have entirely forgotten and re-new them with "just a can of paint or varnish and a little work that's fun."

Fullerwear Varnishes

"The All Purpose Varnish"

Varnishes have always been a source of mystery to the average home-owner. A slight scratch usually meant an unsightly white mar, but depreciated the article more than a year of hard wear. That scratch showed white because a cheap varnish was used.

Fullerwear will not scratch white. And Fullerwear will not mar nor turn white when hot dishes and hot water come in contact with it. For tables, refrigerators, desks, mantels,—any varnishable surface should be varnished with Fullerwear. The use of this product will completely change your ideas with respect to varnishes, if you have only known the cheaper, less durable kind.

Writes hard in about 15 hours.

Convenient sizes for household use.

Suitable uses for Fullerwear Varnish: Billiard Tables, Clothes Chests, Wardrobes, Filing Cabinets, Fishing Rods, Folding Beds, Furniture, Phonographs, Tea Trays, Tea Wagons, Tool Chests, Trunks, Ukuleles, Porch Furniture, Reclining Chairs, Refrigerators, Secretaries, Davenport, Sewing Machines, Kitchen Cabinets, Sweepers, Tables, Telephone Stands, Trays, Typewriter Tables.

SESSIONS BOARD TO ASSEMBLE TONIGHT

Activities of the church among the young people of the congregation will be the chief subject for discussion at the meeting of the board of sessions, the official body of the United Presbyterian church, which will have its first meeting of the autumn season, in the parlors of the church at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The Rev. J. G. Kennedy, pastor, will preside and a full attendance of the twelve members, comprising the body, is anticipated.

Banquet Tomorrow Night.
The opening of the fall campaign of the different bodies of the church will occur this week, and tomorrow night will mark the first meeting of the church brotherhood, when the members will gather at the church for a banquet at 6:30 o'clock.

An interesting program for the brotherhood has been arranged with Dr. G. E. Raitt of Hollywood, as the chief speaker. Dr. Raitt, a brother of J. T. Raitt of this city, recently came from Pittsburgh to assume the position of medical superintendent of the missions for California. His subject tomorrow night will be "The Christian Man's Relation to the Business World."

To Plan for Rally Day.
On Wednesday night, a 6 o'clock banquet has been announced for the teachers and officials of the Sunday school, who will hold a business meeting following the banquet, at which plans will be outlined for the annual rally day of the Sunday school.

A movement has been launched to have the Sunday schools of the city join in a general rally day and to name the last Sunday in September as the day on which it will be held. This phase of the matter will be presented to the U. P. Sunday school officials next Wednesday night.

TRAINING CAMP IS HIGHLY PRAISED

Reaching home Saturday from Camp Kole, the first Southern California Hi-Y training camp, the Orange county delegation gave an enthusiastic account of camp life and experiences.

Under the leadership of A. J. Raitt, who also acted as one of the tent leaders at reaching camp, the party, consisting of Knox Pinley, Tom Watts and Homer Anderson of Santa Ana, Bob Hatcher of Anaheim, Tom Warren and Billy Travers of Fullerton, spent a little over a week in the camp where they were joined by delegations from all the leading high schools of the South and where an intensive course of training was followed by the entire camp.

There were forty-two boys in camp and seven leaders. Ralph Cole, state secretary of boys' work of the Y. M. C. A. and former Orange county secretary, was camp director. Several special speakers of note, such as Gale Seaman, student secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. for the Pacific coast, Rev. Bob Shuler of Los Angeles, Prof. Ewing, principal of the Pasadena High school, were brought in for a day or so, filling out a very fine program. The boys also arranged personal interviews with these men, who gave them some very valuable advice in regard to their life's problems, going on to school, etc.

"Y" EXECUTIVE BOARD TO BANQUET TONIGHT

The first meeting of the executive board of the Orange County Y. M. C. A. which will take place tonight at the First Baptist church, will have many matters of interest coming up for discussion.

Chief among them will be the outline of the work which is to be carried out during the winter.

The business meeting will be preceded by a banquet, served in the church parlors, at which the wives of the "Y" executives will be guests. An interesting feature of the evening will be the program arranged for by Miss Kathleen Owens of the "Y" office, and which will consist of whistling solos by David Myers; violin solos by Myford Carrillo; readings, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott; vocal duet by the Misses Holly Lash and Dorothy Mead and piano selections, Miss Adelaide Proctor.

SURVEY COMPLETED ON PROPOSED COLONY

CHICO, Sept. 12.—Engineer J. R. Johns has completed the surveys for the proposed state land colony on the Wilson ranch at Nord, and his plans will be turned over to Dr. Elwood Mead, head of the State Land Settlement work.

Great interest is being manifested here in the new land colony proposition and many are offering material aid in pushing developments. The Chico Chamber of commerce has expressed its willingness to assist financially.

T. H. Ramsay, Red Bluff banker, is interested in the project and has assisted the local organization he is keeping in touch with the progress of the work.

MUSIC TEACHERS REQUESTED TO FILE THEIR CREDENTIALS

Members of the music committee, of the Santa Ana high school, comprised of Miss Lena Catherine Shepard, Mrs. Ella Campau, Mrs. Arnold Peek, D. K. Hammond and Harry Garstang, announce that all music teachers of the city who desire to become accredited high school teachers should have their credentials in the hands of the committee within the next ten days.

For those who have been regularly accredited teachers, all that is necessary is a request for renewal of registration, accompanied with the one dollar fee, while for those who have not been accredited before, a statement of musical education and experience is necessary.

All letters in regard to the matter should be sent to Miss Lena Catherine Shepard and should be signed by the full name of the writer and accompanied by the correct city address.

MUSIC COURSES ARE OUTLINED FOR SEASON

Among the many splendid things offered by the Santa Ana high school and junior college for fall and winter terms, are the music courses, where a greater variety will be offered this year than ever before.

According to Miss Lena Catherine Shepard, head of the music department, the courses are not designed to take the place of the private teachers, but to augment such work, and in such capacity, offer many phases of the subject for which the private teacher does not have time.

The courses offered for regular school credits are as follows:
1. Music Appreciation; open to every student whether he be an excellent musician or one who knows nothing of the subject. A lecture course to be illustrated by records and local artists and will include a brief study of rhythm, melody, harmony, form, style, periods of musical development, great composers and national schools, and will aim to develop intelligent listeners.

The course is conducted by Miss Shepard and is open to all students of high school and junior college, members of the faculty and residents of Santa Ana. It is one of the most important and should prove the most popular of all the music courses. Twice a week, Tuesday and Thursday, 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., the sixth period.

2. Glee Clubs. Senior Girls' Glee club for girls with musical experience. This club, in conjunction with the boys' club, will give a cantata or operetta, besides appearing on many other programs. Three times a week.

Boys' Glee club. This club will take part in many programs and will compete for the silver cup at Pomona college next spring. Our boys' club won second place at this contest last spring. Three times a week.

Junior Girls' Glee club for younger and less experienced girls. Three times a week.
3. Elementary Harmony and Ear Training for Advanced Music Students. This is required of all advanced music students desiring credit for outside music study and should, if possible, be taken in the junior year. Every advanced music student should have harmony.

4. Light singing. This is for those who have had few or no musical opportunities and for those who are not good sight readers. This course should be taken by all who expect to take a teacher's course. Twice a week.

5. Band and Orchestra. The band and orchestras will be in charge of H. Schillinger, who has had a wide experience as both teacher and director, and it is hoped that this department will grow and develop until it attains a very high standard. There will be a senior orchestra open to junior college students and advanced high school students. This orchestra will play more difficult music and will take part on many programs. Twice a week.

The junior orchestra is for less experienced students and will meet three times a week.
There are many functions at which the band can play and boys who play wind instruments well enough are urged to join this class. Twice a week.

There are a number of school instruments available that will be given out upon application.
6. There will be a chorus organized in junior college which will present either a cantata or an operetta with orchestral accompaniment besides appearing on other programs.

BOARD VOTES SPECIAL TAX FOR ROAD WORK

REDWOOD CITY, Sept. 12.—To raise funds with which to improve the fourteen miles of highway leading from Pescadero to the Santa Cruz county line, the board of supervisors here voted a special tax of 23 cents on $100. This is expected to bring into the treasury more than $80,000, all of which will be used on the road.

The tax rate for San Mateo county for 1921 and 1922 will be 1 cent lower than for last year, it was decided by the board. The tax rate next year will be $2.54 outside of corporate limits and $2.04 inside of corporate limits.

LODGE EXPECTS CROWD TO SEE NEW DEPUTY

Members of the Modern Woodmen of America of the Santa Ana Camp No. 7578, are anticipating a record-breaking attendance at their regular meeting tomorrow night when the recently appointed state deputy, Ben Goodheart, will be present and address the meeting.

Many of the local Woodmen heard the new state deputy at the big log rolling and picnic held at Pomona over Labor day, and were much impressed at that time by his ability as a speaker as well as by his personality.

An unusual amount of interest attaches to the appearance of Deputy Goodheart in Santa Ana at present, as it is an open secret that he plans to make his home in this state and of the two cities under consideration as a future home, Santa Ana is one.

Members of Camp No. 7578 are very anxious to induce the deputy to make the decision in her favor.

Deputy Goodheart was former state deputy of Washington, and asked to be transferred to California as the charms of the state made a definite appeal to him.

His appearance before the members of the lodge tomorrow night will be the signal for the opening of the fall membership campaign, which will be inaugurated by the lodge. A committee whose members are J. G. Mitchell, mayor of the city; H. M. Warwick, E. E. Vincent, president of the California National bank; R. R. Shafer, of Shafer's

Arrangements for showing the film have been completed by Miss Maude Gibson, a registered solicitor for the institution.

This film will outline the methods used in making over crippled limbs and bodies.

The foundation is a charitable institution. The operators in the clinic give their services free. This or a similar film was displayed at a meeting of the Present Day club in Santa Ana last fall.

STRIKING BUTCHERS TO RETURN TO WORK

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—The eighty butchers in wholesale firms who went on strike a week ago when "open shop" conditions were ordered by their employers, were to return to work today, executives of the union announced.

The men will return under union shop conditions and at the wage they were being paid when they went on strike, it was reported.

Fishing Tackle—Hawley's. Music house, and Judge W. H. Thomas will have charge of the campaign, which will in its turn inaugurate the beginning of a four-year campaign designed to swell the membership to 1000 before the state camp meeting to be held in Santa Ana in 1925. State Deputy Goodheart will be accompanied by A. P. Martin of Pasadena, district deputy of the lodge.

MOTHER DEAD; ARREST OF 'HEALER' PROBABLE

Because of the death of their mother, Mrs. Margaret F. Dunbar, after treatment by "Brother Isaiah" Cudney, the faith healer, Ed Dunbar and Mrs. Claude Canthell, of La Habra, may result in the healer's arrest.

Mrs. Dunbar, who had been suffering for many years from rheumatism in her joints, was treated by the "healer" late Saturday night. Members of her family, who accompanied her, say that his method of treatment was to violently pull and manipulate the limbs where they had given her the most trouble.

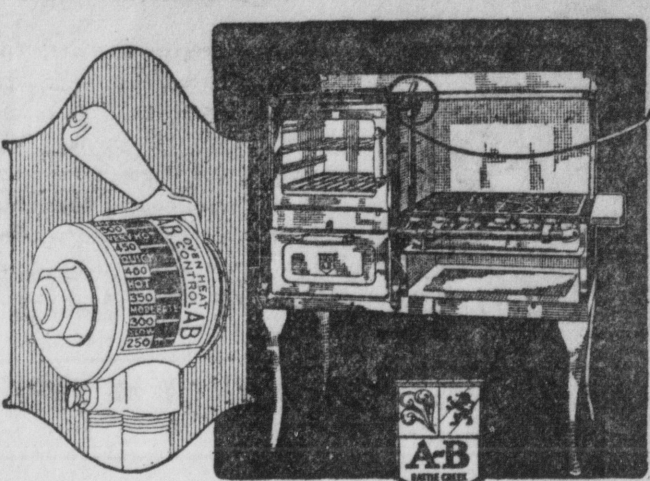

Mrs. Dunbar, who was 60 years of age, became unconscious after she had been in the hands of the "healer" for a few minutes and never regained consciousness before her death. She was rushed from the Vaguerio ranch home of the "healer," to Pomona in an ambulance. Efforts by physicians to revive her were futile.

The body was taken to the Todd Undertaking rooms at Pomona. An X-ray examination revealed that the woman was suffering from a fracture of the right hip, fractures of both elbows, and torn ligaments of both knees.

A coroner's inquest was ordered for 10 a. m. today and relatives of the deceased have announced that they intend to take the matter to the district attorney's office in Los Angeles. Mrs. Dunbar lived at San Dimas.

We are prepared to do your hem-stitching, while you wait, if you want it. All work must give satisfaction. 608 N. Main.

INSURANCE MEN GOING STRONG FOR COUNTY

The members of the Santa Ana Insurance club are going in a body to put Santa Ana on the Insurance map, at the national convention of the National Association of Insurance Agents.

The convention is to be held at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles, September 13 to 17 inclusive. This is the first time that the National association has held a convention on the coast during the 26 years of its organization.

The local club will leave by motor stage from here, going direct to the Ambassador, where reservations have been made by Mac, O. Robbins, president of the Santa Ana Insurance club. According to Robbins, the Santa Ana Insurance club will distribute oranges among the delegates at the convention. The oranges will be furnished by Orange county packers.

Santa Ana has always been very active in county and state insurance organization activities, the state convention of insurance agents being held here three years ago. Local men have held offices in both state and national organizations. Robbins held the office of Pacific coast vice-president of the National association. Clarence E. Prior and the late John A. McFadden were members of the state executive committee.

The local agents who will attend the convention are: C. A. Kingston, O. M. Robbins, S. J. Cornell, Mac, O. Robbins, A. J. Ralph, W. L. Tubbs, J. A. Rowley, F. C. Armin, H. T. Robotham, Mrs. Ben E. Turner, Miss Grace M. Grigsby, W. Frank Harris, L. G. Swales, Ed. Holmes, E. P. Edick, F. D. Drake, Parke S. Roper, C. E. Prior, E. T. McFadden, I. W. Bouldin Jr., R. G. Cartwright and Roy Russell.

The first event of the convention will be the get-together dinner to be given at the Ambassador, where all sessions of the convention will be held, will be the main event and everything has been done to put it over in good shape. There will be 1200 plates spread for the banquet. The program of the convention shows a good time for all as well as a number of good speakers and business sessions.

NAVAL RESERVE MEN TAKE PART IN CRUISE TO CATALINA ISLAND

One of the most successful and enjoyable of the many short cruises taken by the men of the Naval Reserve of Orange county was that of yesterday, according to Ensign Francis Westgate, who commanded the party in the absence of Lieutenant J. Ben Elco.

"There was not the slightest hitch from the minute we left San Pedro until our return late yesterday evening," today declared Ensign Westgate. "The men enjoyed the outing as much as I ever knew them to enjoy an outing. The party landed on Catalina island at Gallagher's cove, just above the isthmus, where they found a sheltered beach, free from the cold ocean winds which predominate at the isthmus itself.

Many took advantage of the good swimming beach, while some hiked across the divide to the ocean side of the island, where they gazed over the expanse of the ocean toward Hawaii.

An interesting departure from former established customs which was inaugurated recently makes it necessary for each officer to take his turn at the wheel during these cruises, and all the men are delighted with the rounding out of their experience which standing at wheel watch gives them.

Men from Orange county who took yesterday's cruise included Ensign Francis Westgate, Ensign Marvin Morrison, Arthur Deacon, Gus Tamplias, Ben Lieberman of Santa Ana; J. Rathke, Garden Grove; A. H. Jinks, Anaheim; Benjamin Brubaker, Orange; Lawrence Schultz, F. C. Jolly, Harry Blackwell and Frank Hobbs, Fullerton.

COLLEGE STUDENT IS MADE MASON HERE

Last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Masonic Temple a representative crowd of Masons was present to witness ceremonies conferring the third degree upon S. C. Wheeler, son of John L. Wheeler of this city, by Silver Cord Lodge, U. D. F. & A. M.

Young Wheeler is about to leave the city to take up his course of study in college and in order that he might be made a Mason in Silver Cord Lodge in his own city he became the first one to receive the degree in the new lodge.

The work was put on by Orange Lodge of Orange, and was effectively done. The master of this lodge, Leon Whitsett, is a long time friend of the Wheeler family.

At the close of lodge, John L. Wheeler expressed his delight by inviting those to James's gold room, where a very pleasant evening was enjoyed. The various brothers displayed their talent in music and song, after which James served each brother present a Wheeler Special. Then followed a number of interesting stories.

Silver Cord Lodge endeavors to make these fellowship meetings (after work) worth while. Visiting brethren are always welcome and usually go away amply repaid for their visit. The lodge meets on Tuesday evenings.

Veteran of Civil War Still Hale and Hearty

GEORGE D. SHAW, Springfield, Mass.

"To say that I feel twenty-five years younger, twenty-five years healthier and twenty-five years stronger expresses what Tanlac has done for me better than any other way I can put it," said George D. Shaw, veteran of the Civil War, who now lives at 321 Walnut street, Springfield, Mass.

"I am now seventy-eight years old and I don't hesitate to say I have never known a medicine to equal Tanlac. For fifteen years I was subject to attacks of indigestion that were so bad at times I would have to lay up for a week or two. For a long time I lived on crackers and molly alone as nothing else agreed with me.

"When I started on Tanlac I weighed only one hundred and seven pounds and my days were thought to be numbered. I've been so wonderfully built up, I now weigh one hundred and forty-three pounds and my stomach is as sound as a dollar. In fact, I believe I could eat the old army rations again without it hurting me in the least.

"I never miss a chance of saying a good word for Tanlac and I would like to urge the boys of the 'Sixties' who are not feeling right to give it a trial, for I am sure it would put them in line again just as it has me. For a man of my age to have no physical ailment, to be well and strong and enjoy life as he did twenty-five years ago, is certainly something to be thankful for and there is nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Santa Ana by The Rowley Drug company.

MAN, 83, HELD UP, STRUGGLES TO SAVE HIS GOLD WATCH

J. A. Stevens Is Robbed at Point of Gun on Cypress Avenue

HIS FINGER IS INJURED

Nervy Man Tells His Family of the Affair Casually Today

"Well, sir, I was held up and robbed last night for the first time in my life."

The casual remark came from Judson A. Stevens, 83, while he sat at the breakfast table with his family.

Thus, casually and cheerfully, does Stevens regard an incident in which he grappled with an armed hold-up man.

Stevens was on his way to his home at 510 Cypress about 8:30 o'clock last night when he observed a man standing in a shadow.

He said he walked by and observed that he was a "tough character."

Stevens crossed the street a moment later and was walking on Cypress between First and Walnut when he was accosted by the same man he had seen in the shadow.

"I want your money," said the highwayman, sticking a gun against Stevens' ribs.

Stevens threw up his hands and the robber relieved him of his gold watch and a small amount of silver.

The elderly man valued his watch very highly and became enraged when the robber grabbed it.

Stevens seized the revolver in an effort to take it away from the highwayman, and sustained a slight injury.

Cost of House Paint Is Down! Many Are Applying The Brush

House painting is coming back into its own.

Mr. Home Owner is washing out the old brushes.

Or figuring things out with Friend Painter.

Sunburnt shingles are heaving a thirsty sigh.

Warped doors are straightening expectantly.

Buckled porch floors are sinking contentedly.

Why? Because paint prices have returned to prewar levels.

B. R. McBride, manager of the paint department of the John McFadden company, says so.

Said McBride:

"House painting has been sadly neglected during the last few years due to the high price of materials. But outside paints now are back to 1917 prices; they have declined $1.50 a gallon.

"Homeowners, therefore, have decided to give the curling shingles a new protective coating before winter sets in.

"Outside woodwork particularly feels the strain of war and expansion with the change of weather. Sunbaked shingles will not last long if they are not well coated with paint. Window cases, door frames, porch floors, and all exterior trim demand periodical painting. Neglect soon begins to tell in poor appearance, opening joints, and perhaps a leaky roof.

"That is why painting this fall will be a particularly strenuous business. Everybody wants to get the job done before the first rain."

3 OF 5 WHO ROBBED BATHERS FLEE, WORD

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 12.—Three of the five bandits who held up the bathers at Beck's hot springs Monday night and secured $20,000 in cash and jewelry have fled with the loot, according to the local police.

Harry Hamilton and C. W. Jones, who confessed to their part in the holdup, have been sentenced to serve indeterminate terms in the Utah state prison.

CROWN WILLING TO ACT UNDER ONE PERMIT

Watson Says He Would Not Take Half-City Franchise

The Crown Stage will submit a bid should the city council offer a franchise for the operation of a jitney service in the city covering the entire city, but it will not attempt to serve the north half of the city with the south half being covered by another concern.

This was the statement today of A. B. Watson, proprietor of the Crown Stage. Watson's decision is a reversal of a former conclusion and is the result of a thorough canvass of the situation since the first statement was made. Watson returned from his vacation Friday night last.

Watson stated some three months ago that he would institute jitney service in the north half of the city if the Motor Transit company were given a franchise for the south half. The Motor Transit had filed with the city council a request for a franchise for the south half. It appears to have been filed with an understanding that the two companies would co-operate in providing a jitney service in the residential districts.

Watson's reversal of his former position in the matter is due to a thorough canvass of the situation and he has concluded that it would not be to the best interests of the city to have two companies operating in the manner that has been generally discussed.

"Operation of two companies in the city is impracticable," declared Watson today. "It would require a system of transfers and this would entail extra expense, extra labor and would be unsatisfactory to patrons.

"Jitney lines would be unprofitable, so far as one local business is concerned."

Opening of Schools Aids In Bringing Beach Season to a Close

While the Orange county beaches entertained fair crowds yesterday, the opening of schools in this county today seems to have heralded the closing of the summer season.

During the past week, scores of beach cottages were closed. Cabins in the mountains have been locked, some of them not to be entered again until next July or August.

In other words, it's school time. Fall is here.

But swimming is not at an end. Bathers who went into the surf yesterday enjoyed it as much as ever they did.

Seal Beach says the bathing season is not at an end, for it has arranged for a bathing girl parade to be put on next Sunday.

PIGEONS ARE TO BE SHOWN AT BIG FAIR

A pigeon show is to be one of the features of the Orange County Fair which opens at Huntington Beach September 28th, according to a decision of the fair committee last week.

The matter was brought up by the offer of Charles C. Clark of Fullerton to take charge of such an event, and was unanimously accepted. Clark works in the Fullerton post office by days, and is a pigeon fancier the rest of the time, so that expert care of birds may be expected.

Clark believes that there will be fifty or more pigeon entries and is now busy making preparations for his part in the fair, which runs four days to October 1st.

BANDITS BIND VICTIM WITH ADHESIVE TAPE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—Bandits bound and gagged Henry Stickler with adhesive tape and, after robbing him of $35, threw him over a fence into a field, where he lay helplessly for more than three hours.

Stickler reported to the police that he was held up on a road four miles outside of Redondo by three men who drove up in an automobile.

HOBOS TODAY IS YOUNGER THAN IN EIGHTIES

Local Officers Expecting Many Wanderers Here This Winter

Hobos are getting younger. "Blanket stiffs" are in the minority.

Automobiles are taking the place of boxcars.

Hitting the dirt instead of hitting the ties.

Riding in a "swell limousine" beats a brakebeam.

Camping by a wooded stream beats the short burned-grass railroad right of way.

Working ain't so bad, but it's hard to get used to.

Such is the philosophy of the new and younger "shanks" mere tourist," and the information that comes from him.

Santa Ana is interested in the hobo for the reason that he is as regular a winter visitor to the Southland as are those who can afford to drive their own cars across the continent and incidentally, perhaps, give the bo a ride.

The influx already is beginning, Sam Jernigan, chief of police, has heard. The sheriff at San Bernardino told the chief, when he visited there recently, that 200 drifters were coming into that place every day.

San Bernardino is a division point and the boxcar bums are dumped there. And if they are hiking across the desert, they follow the railroad tracks by choice and for safety. San Bernardino is the Gateway out of the East.

"We can't keep count or them," said the chief, "as we used to do. So many come by highway, probably riding in somebody's car. Naturally we do not molest them under such circumstances.

"There is no doubt that this winter will see a greater influx of unemployed than at any other time in the county's history. Advertising the only 'white spot' in the country is bound to attract many who never were on the road before.

"It is not strictly true that Justice of the Peace Cox has been over lenient with vagrants. His policy in the past, when there were jobs to be had, was to put the vag to work."

"And the judge works with us all the way, which means that we are able to follow out a definite program as regards a serious problem."

"Evidently there is a different class on the road today than there was several years ago. Hard times in the East. Harder than we can imagine, have driven many toward the West. Following the line of least resistance, it is cheaper to live out here; they sleep out at night, and the chances of starving are slim."

"Sometime ago the San Bernardino sheriff found a man and his wife and eighteen-months-old baby in a boxcar. They had enough money to ride, but if they had ridden they would have been broke when they arrived here. Therefore they hit the road."

"Whether the man actually is looking for work is the most difficult question we have to decide in each case. Perhaps he is, but coming along the regular routes he falls into a gang of old-timers, inveterate crooks, and that may be his finish."

"Eliminate the crooks, and the I. W. W. nest in Imperial valley and the problem would be greatly simplified."

Theo (Budge) Lacy, county jailer, makes a study of the vagrants that are given a period of rest in the ivy-clad jail, with its surrounding sweep of lawn. He said:

"The hard-boiled, old-time bo is fast disappearing. I can remember back in the eighties when my father was sheriff, that the vagrants then were really troublesome. They were older men than the present day tramp—bitter old fellows, and inclined to be vicious, even if they had not the courage to be ferocious."

"Today I find that most of them are young fellows, between 17 and 25 years old. Some are adventurous with plain wanderlust, and consequently are attracted to the West."

"I can tell the good fellows from the bad by the way in which they answer the call for work. I send out a working gang every day of twelve men. The recent but unfortunate fellow immediately volunteers, while the lunk feigns sickness or has some other excuse."

"Which reminds me of the colored fellow who hid under the covers ever morning when the work gang was being chosen. He said he had hay fever and other troubles. I put him in the 'hole' for a couple of days, and he enjoys working now. One gets so he can tell when they are faking."

"All sorts show up here now. The university graduate may come in here in the same group as the fellow who can't write his name. That's the democracy of the road."

"There are more colored fellows on the road now than there used to be."

Herman J. Zabel, deputy sheriff and chief of the identification bureau, talking to C. E. Jackson, sheriff, said he thought that vagrants should be paid, perhaps fifty cents a day, while working for the county, "then they would not be on 'their uppers' the day of their release."

"Now," he said, "the vag is no better off when he leaves the jail, than when he entered. Though of course his stomach probably is stretched a little tighter, and usually he is decidedly cleaner after the rest."

"But without money, he naturally drifts to the next town and takes another turn in jail. That's rather a discouraging prospect—from one jail to another with a short hungry period in between."

TITLED BEAUTY WILL GREET WALES PRINCE

The Countess of Cromer, one of the most beautiful English noblewomen, will be hostess to the Prince of Wales when he visits India. Earl Cromer, her husband, will be chief of the prince's personal staff.

SITUATION HERE BETTER THAN ELSEWHERE

Unemployment is not a problem in Orange county, according to H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, and J. F. Jackson, manager of the Farm Bureau employment office. Jackson estimates the total of unemployment at 6000, less than half of which is composed of permanent county residents. Probably 2000 of the number are in and around Santa Ana, he said, while the remainder is collected around other county communities.

Reviewing the unemployment situation from the standpoint of his knowledge of conditions as the man to whom the Orange county farmer turns when farm labor is needed, Jackson said:

"Orange county probably is in better condition regarding unemployment than any other county in California, which would mean that it is better off than any other place in the United States."

"But that is no reason for use to brag about it and encourage the residents of less fortunate counties to make a Mecca of Orange county."

"This office finds that the automobile creates a large transient labor element that did not exist before automobiles became as popular as it is today."

"All the men in the car wants is enough to keep his car running and the necessary three meals a day for himself."

"The transient labor is difficult to estimate, and as a matter of fact, it can be no more than a running estimate. Before you have them counted they are gone."

"But the permanent residents of Orange county form a different class. I believe not more than five per cent of this county's 60,000 population is out of employment at present, a low but conservative estimate. I am positive the figure would not run over eight per cent."

"Permanent residents can survive short unemployed periods. The majority of them have their homes and savings, and can utilize the time beneficially around their homes. This is not generally true of the transient, as far as savings are concerned."

"Then again the transients drift right through. If they cannot secure work here in a couple of days, they continue on into San Diego county."

Wahlberg, speaking in a general way of the labor situation as related to the farmer, said:

"The farmer is not having any trouble in securing sufficient labor to harvest his crops this year. Harvesting has taken up the largest portion of the unemployed, but there are many now calling at the ranches every day looking for work."

"Through our employment bureau we are able to give the farmer the class of labor he wants. We can pick and choose, and put the right man in the right job. It is different from the bureau which charges for its services, in that we locate a man in a job and hope that he keeps it, while the more commercial bureau apparently hopes for a quick turnover and another fee for the same."

REPORTS PLATES AT CAMP CAJON ARE PLACED

Several months ago the Kiwanis club undertook to see to it that Santa Ana and Orange county were placed on the map of Southern California as spread out at Camp Cajon for the information of tourists entering the state through that gateway. The project is now complete. The Kiwanis club contributed $25 to a fund for the purpose of special representation, and secured through its committee additional contributions — $25 from the Realty board, $50 from the board of supervisors of Orange county and $52 from the city trustees of Santa Ana.

This fund, amounting to $125, was used to pay for a concrete table and a steel range, and for the insertion in the face of the table of a tablet containing an invitation from the City of Santa Ana, and the insertion in the stone chimney serving the steel range of another tablet containing an invitation from the county of Orange.

After considerable delay these tablets have been placed, as indicated by the following letter, received today by the chairman of the Kiwanis Club committee:

"Highland, California, September 7, 1921.

"Mr. J. P. Baumgartner, Santa Ana, California.

"Dear Mr. Baumgartner: Be it known that today at Camp Cajon there was set in a concrete dining table a 12-inch round metal tablet inscribed, '70 Miles Southwest, SANTA ANA, County Seat of Orange County, Invites You.' And in the face of the chimney on a big stone and iron range another tablet was set with the inscription, 'ORANGE COUNTY, With Products of the Soil Exceeding $100,000,000 Annually, Awaits You.'

"These two structures are units in the 'Banquet Group,' the most conspicuous and popular section of the grounds. The Elks of all the Southland are to gather at the camp Sunday, September 11th, to dedicate their newly finished $3000 Outpost clubhouse; and, without knowledge that the Elks had chosen that day for their gathering, the members of the Citrus Belt Pythian Association are also to meet there to consider erecting a similar building to represent their order.

"Kindly tell the members of the two orders in your county who expect to be present to look for the Santa Ana and Orange county tablets. And please tell your Rotarians that there is one unclaimed tablet in 'Rotary Row,' with an empty niche which may be filled by a Rotary club tablet only.

"We made a picture of your two tablets before setting them in place and will send you copies as soon as they are printed.

"Thanking you for your personal interest in the Camp Pass Welcome station, and for the check for $125 which you sent to cover the cost of the two structures, I am,

"Yours very truly,

"W. M. BRISTOL."

NEW SCHEDULE OF JUICE RATES HERE

Vital to Orange county farmers, who are small or intermittent users of electric power, is the new schedule decided upon by the state railroad commission, according to Sydney E. Saunby, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Orange county Farm Bureau.

Saunby is in receipt of a communication from the commission, dated September 6, stating that the industrial power rate schedule has been ordered applicable to agricultural operations. Saunby says the revised ratings are the result of Farm Bureau activities in securing investigation of the affected power matter by state railroad commissioners.

"Thousands of dollars, I believe, will be saved to Orange county farmers by this new rate schedule," said Saunby. "The Farm Bureau was active in putting the matter before the commissioners. This revision is result of their visits here some time ago."

W. L. Deimling, manager of the Southern California Edison company's district office in Santa Ana, explained the technicalities of the new schedule today. He said:

"As yet, I have not received the new schedule, though I know of its contents. I shall receive it from the general offices of the Edison company."

"This new schedule ordered filed by the State Railroad commission makes the P.12 industrial rate applicable to farm users of power on the P.6 schedule basis.

"It must be emphasized that the revised schedule will prove comparatively economical only to the small or intermittent users of electric power.

"The farmer, who runs a motor only during a few months of the year, or a farmer who is obliged to hitch a motor to his well to supply domestic water—they are the ones that will benefit most by this combination schedule.

"For this reason, though a reduction has been made on rate per horse power in the P.12 schedule, a consumption charge has been added by the attachment of the P.6 schedule.

"This is advantageous to the small power user. In fact, was ordered for him, I was in touch with the situation here and felt that such a rate should be put into effect.

"Take the farmer, for instance, with a 30-horse power motor on a domestic well. It draws probably no more than five-horse power. Yet he paid for his power under a straight P.6 schedule. Certainly he was over-looked when the schedule was created.

"Under the P.6 schedule he was obliged to pay $232.50 minimum for his 30-horse power motor each year. He paid six monthly installments of $38.75, and was entitled to approximately 7750 kilowatts during that year. He received no refund if he used less.

"Under the combination schedule he will pay a flat demand rate and then for his energy only as he uses it. The new schedule is $5 per horsepower per year for the first ten horsepower, and $3.50 for each horsepower over ten, plus all energy at the P.6 rate, three cents."

ADVISE CITY IT CAN REFUND $50 FINE

That Clyde Bishop, special counsel for the city at tonight's meeting of the city trustees would advise that body that it would be within its legal rights to refund to Mrs. Lionel Roberts of Balboa $50 which she paid as a fine following her arrest in connection with a raid on an alleged house of ill repute here several months ago, was disclosed on competent authority today.

At the same time it was learned that Attorney Bishop would advise the council it would not be within its legal rights should it allow Mrs. Roberts' counsel, Dan V. Noland, of Los Angeles, approximately $300 as attorney fees and a sum something less than $100 in addition, declared to have been incurred by Mrs. Roberts as incidental expense in connection with the case.

On the strength of this information it was indicated that there would be a possible renewal of the legal clash between Mrs. Roberts and the council. It is understood that Attorney Noland has intimated he would sue the city for the fees and expense money, should the trustees decide to withhold a refund.

Today's developments in the case served to recall to mind the arrest of Mrs. Roberts and her subsequent victory in getting her name cleared so far as concerned the records in the action.

Mrs. Roberts was arrested on Friday night, June 10, in a raid by officers on a residence occupied by negroes. The raid was the result of activities of a special detective engaged by the city council to hunt down blind-piggers.

Following the raid the Balboa woman was taken to City Recorder Heathman's court, where she pleaded guilty to a charge of being an inmate of a house of ill repute.

She asserted that she was advised by the detective to plead guilty to the charge, which she understood at the time of the pleading to have been a charge of having been found in a place where liquor was sold. She declares that the detective himself provided her with a fictitious name, inscribing in the complaint the name of Cecil Bruner.

To clear her name and the court records of conviction upon the charge, through her attorney, she requested correction of the court records and repayment of the $50 she had paid as a fine.

In the preliminaries her attorney declared that all his client wanted was clearance of the court record and return of the fine.

Rehearing of her case before City Recorder Heathman was had. The testimony introduced convinced Heathman that Mrs. Roberts happened to be at the house at the time of the raid for the purpose of endeavoring to secure the services of a colored woman as a domestic, the woman having been formerly employed by Mrs. Roberts at Balboa. Mrs. Roberts had not been in the house more than five minutes when the officers raided the place.

At the rehearing of the case, Mrs. Roberts was found not guilty and City Recorder Heathman offered profuse apology for what he termed a grievous error in the arrest of Mrs. Roberts.

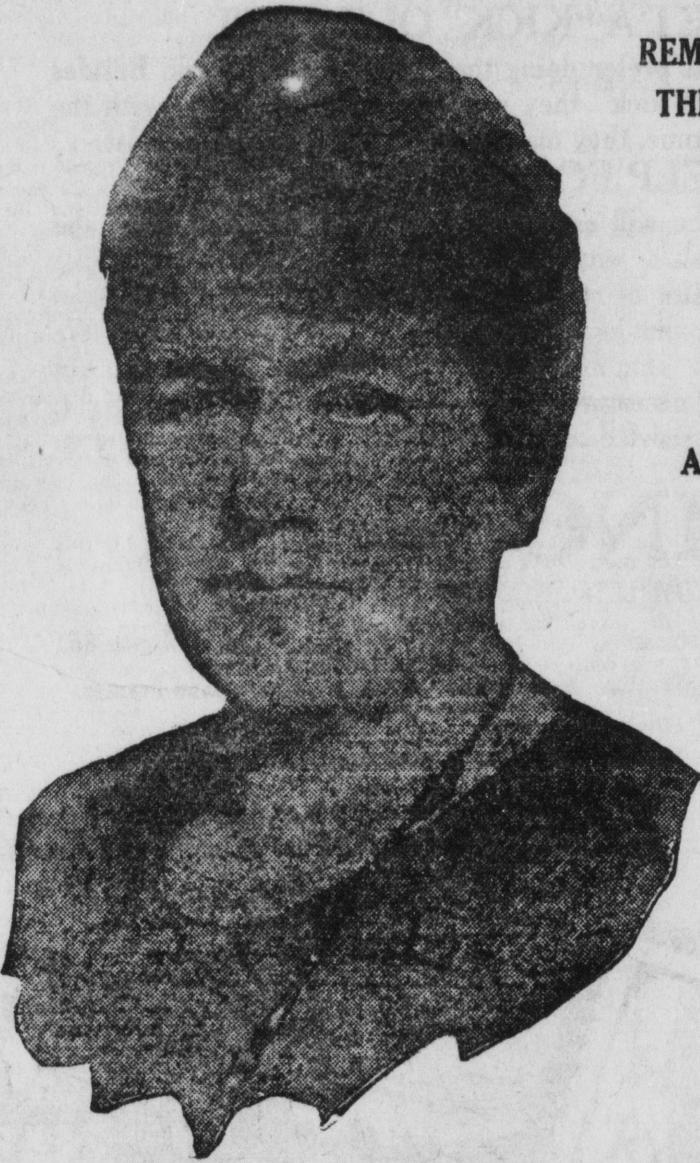

A few weeks ago Attorney Noland filed with the city on behalf of his client a bill covering the fine and Mrs. Roberts' cost in connection with efforts to correct the court records.

"Santa Ana is growing. In time local cars might be operated at a profit. I would be willing to undertake the maintenance of local jitney service in the interest of giving a service that would assist in the development of our city, should I be the successful bidder for a franchise, but I would not expect to profit financially by the operations of some-years to come."

Many prominent residents of the city have expressed themselves as believing that a jitney service in residential districts should be instituted at an early date. They say that the development and growth of the city is being retarded to some extent by the absence of such a service.

jury to a finger of his right hand.

The highwayman broke away and ran and Stevens started after him. It was a race between youth and age and youth won.

Stevens returned to his home and retired without saying anything to the members of his family, all of whom had retired.

Stevens made a report to the police last night. Officer Sid Smithwick and City Marshal Jernigan investigated. Jernigan found a hook from Stevens' watch chain, which was dropped at the scene of the holdup.

According to Stevens the holdup man was a Mexican about 30 years old. He was wearing dark pants and a light shirt and "no suspenders" as Stevens put it.

Stevens jokingly remarked this morning that the robber overlooked $25 in currency which he had in a wallet in his hip pocket.

PAULARINO DISTRICT WANTS SCHOOL BIDS

Residents of the Paularino school district are hoping that their second advertisement for bids for the erection of a two-room school building on the grounds there, may be successful, according to a statement made today by R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent.

Bids for the erection of the building were advertised shortly after the bond issue carried and the bonds were sold, but those received were far in excess of the sum voted by the community, so they were refused and the matter allowed to stand until the present time.

In the meantime, a number of important changes have been made, in the plans, among them the elimination of the septic tank and a change in the heating system, which will aid materially in reducing the cost of construction.

The four sets of plans in possession of the county superintendent have all been taken out by contractors, who wish to submit bids for the construction of the building, and it is hoped that the figures offered will be such that the contract may be awarded and the work proceed.

Bids will be opened at the office of Superintendent Mitchell on the afternoon of September 19 at 2 o'clock.

$800,000 ADDED TO VALUE H. S. DISTRICT

ORANGE, Sept. 12 — Through the addition of the school districts of Peralta and Silverado and the general increase in property values, the Orange Union high school district has increased $800,000 in assessed valuation during the past year.

The assessed valuation of the district is now $11,096,130.00 as against $10,296,620.00 in 1920. Of this increase, about half a million is due to the addition of new districts. The rest is the result of appreciated property values.

The assessed valuation of the several school districts which make up the union high school district are: Orange, $5,422,285.00; Olive, $1,814,975.00; Villa Park, $1,374,260.00; El Modena, $1,976,305.00; Peralta, $369,465.00; Silverado, $147,840.00.

PROFITS KEPT AT HOME HELP TO BUILD NEW SCHOOL HOUSES AND PAVE THE STREETS—LOCAL PHOTOGRAPHER IS STRONG FOR THE HOME INDUSTRY

Quarter of a Century of Study Qualifies John Rabe to Present Human Character in Pictures—Keen Interest in Children Leads to a Hobby of Peculiar Nature

"No work is done unless it is done well," is an old saw that made an early impression upon the mind of John Rabe, photographer. It is a principle upon which he continues to do business, demanding of his shop that nothing be turned over to the public but perfect examples of photographic art. With this idea in mind he has equipped his studio with every appliance that will aid in the improvement of ordinary work. "I'd rather lose money on a job," he said, "than to have it go out while there is still room for improvement."

Any man following the same line of work for a quarter of a century is certain to become proficient in his line. But if a man who has a natural temperament for such work puts his soul into it for twenty-five years there is nothing in the world that could prevent him from becoming an expert. That is the case of Rabe. "The Photographer in Your Town."

John F. Rabe, who has had his studio in the Spurgeon building for the past four years, has left evidence of his skill in correctly portraying character in the homes of hundreds of Californians.

Rabe came to Santa Ana from Los Angeles, but his home for many years previous to that was in Colorado. There he established a reputation in the world of photographic art that only a few men have had. His prominence was recognized there by his election as president of the Inter-Mountain Photographers' Association, made up of the leading photographers of the four mountain states, and his re-election at the expiration of his first term in office.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of Rabe's business is his work with the children. In this work he has been highly successful, because he has a natural interest in children and studies them carefully. Samples of his work, framed and hung about his studio, indicate clearly that the portrayal of child life is Rabe's hobby.

Starting out in business for himself years ago Rabe's first resolution was that nothing but the very highest class of work should ever leave his studio. Then he began a study of the psychology of the photographic art. The spare hours during the quarter of a century he has been in business have been employed in a study of human character and the problem of getting human character into portraits.

Booster for Home Town

If a man may have two hobbies then Rabe's second hobby is boosting for his home town. Being a man of much civic pride he is an active member in the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and other organizations of a similar character.

He believes that every home industry should have the full support of all home people and that any industry on the outside that seeks to come in and carry off the money that belongs here in town should be discouraged on every possible occasion. The fine home at 1410 West Third street which is so carefully groomed and cared for is a further evidence of Rabe's civic pride.

"If the outside concerns that are coming into Santa Ana with a temporary proposition had to depend upon me for a living they would all die in the poor house," Rabe declared. "I believe in spending my money with my own neighbors so far as possible and since I have been in Santa Ana I have not spent a dollar out of town that could have been spent here at home."

Perfectly Equipped Studio

In equipping his place for the execution of high grade work Rabe has apparently overlooked nothing. No manner of bad weather can interfere with the making of perfect pictures in this studio.

"It costs a lot of money to put all this equipment in," he said, "but perfect work cannot be done without it. I made up my mind years ago that it would be better to turn out only the most exacting work, even at the expense of volume. I'd rather go to a little expense and take a bit of extra time to do the job exactly right."

This year the Rabe studio is going to specialize in Christmas pictures. It is realized that pictures make decidedly good Christmas gifts, and although it seems a bit early to mention Christmas, several orders have already been taken for such pictures. The picture idea appears to have been growing on Christmas givers in recent years. When a dozen gifts can be disposed of in a highly satisfactory manner by merely sitting for a photograph it is not surprising that busy people are adopting the happy idea.

Service for Amateurs

Another feature of Rabe's work that has been a source of much satisfaction to amateur photographers and Kodak enthusiasts is the Kodak finishing and printing department. There is satisfaction in having small pictures worked out by expert hands. With the unusual equipment and skill available at the Rabe shop many a doubtful vacation picture, it is said, has been brought out in a highly satisfactory manner.

The chief assistant to Mr. Rabe is P. H. Greene, a man who has made advanced photography a life study. Greene has charge of the Kodak department. His experience covers years spent under some of the most famous photographers in America. There is no branch of studio work in which he is not an expert. Many interesting examples of his work are exhibited in the studio.

To one who is interested in pictures the Rabe studio will prove a source of much pleasure. If you have not made yourself acquainted with the place and the men who work there you have a pleasure to look forward to.

WHAT MADE THE CHANGE?

This Woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a New Woman

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had bearing-down pains so badly I could hardly stand up. I was white and nervous, had a poor appetite and only weighed 112 pounds. I took ten bottles without missing one dose and gave it a fair trial. When I finished the last bottle everyone asked me what made the wonderful change in me. I told them about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I recommend it whenever I can. I give you permission to publish this letter to help suffering women as your remedies are a godsend and made a new woman of me."—Mrs. F. A. BAKER, 4749 Butler St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Why will women drag around day after day, suffering from backache, bearing-down pains, nervousness and "the blues," enduring a miserable existence when they have such evidence as the above that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable remedy for such troubles. For nearly forty years this grand old root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health.

NEW BUILDING MARKS SCHOOL OPENING

By the REV. W. E. SPICER
BREA, Sept. 12 — Brea Grammar school, notice the plural—opened today.

Prof. W. E. Fanning has been supervising principal for several years. He has witnessed a twenty per cent growth year by year.

The building known as the Brea Grammar school is one of the finest in the county and a source of pride to the citizens.

A new building in the center of the town, which has grown southward was planned by the same architect and built on the same lines. It was ready for occupancy today.

Prof. Fanning had always had the backing of a splendid board of trustees and determined to have the best teachers obtainable.

Their plan is to pay the first installment of salary of $1500 for grade teachers and $1800 for principals at the conclusion of the second week and the last of the nine months' term an extra payment is made. That is, ten payments are made for nine months of school thus enabling the teacher to meet pressing demands at the beginning of her year's work and giving her a double check at the close, which enables her to better carry her summer schooling and vacation expenses.

Transportation of pupils from the lease will continue.

Today was a high day in our schools as it introduced many new pupils and several new teachers and a new distribution of pupils into the new building.

Professor Fanning has prepared the following statement for The Register:

"The new school known as the Laurel school, will include only the kindergartners, first graders, second graders, third graders and fourth graders, who live south of Birch street.

All other children not in the above classification of grades are ordered to report to the Brea school. You will find your grade there, whether kindergarten, first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh or eighth grade.

Personnel of Staff

PLANS TO BUILD HOME AT TALBERT

TALBERT, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Mary Lamb Levengood and Mr. Levengood of Pomona were at Talbert Wednesday making arrangements for the carrying out of plans for the erection of a five-room house and barn on Mrs. Levengood's land in the Lamb tract.

Work on the buildings will begin in the near future and it is possible that the Levengoods may spend a portion of each year as residents here.

S. E. Talbert attended on last Tuesday the regular monthly meeting of the Newbert protection district board, of which he is president, and also the Talbert drainage district meeting at which he also acted as president pro tem in the absence of the president, Earl Gardner.

The meetings were held as usual at the offices of the respective attorneys of the districts.

Emil Lecrivain resumed bee hauling on his ranch following several days' layoff.

Mr. Ksar, of the Walter Lamb ranch, started hauling out the first of his best crop last Wednesday.

S. E. Talbert butchered six hogs Wednesday, which were taken to market the day following.

The Talbert baller finished at the Canvas Back Gun club Wednesday and moved Thursday to Westminster to the Ed Finley ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Lacabanne and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Landin were visitors at the homes of relatives at Talbert over Sunday and Labor day. Sunday and Sunday night they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Lacabanne and Monday was spent at the home of R. Courreges, father of Mrs. Lacabanne and Mrs. Landin.

Warren Culver is ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. Emil Lecrivain has as a guest at her home for a few days her brother, Paul Giraud of Los Angeles, who arrived on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lacabanne moved to Los Angeles Tuesday to attend the celebration of LaFayette's birthday anniversary which was held at the park hearing his name in the local theatrical pond—and it is only one of many good things.

Another important personality here this week is Ruth Renick, co-starring with Lewis Stone in "The Golden Snare," now current at the West End. Although comparatively new to the screen, Ruth Renick has had long service in the spoken stage. She is generally conceded to be one of the most intellectual girls on the stage today and this factor has been instrumental in placing her screen creations far without the realm of the commonplace. She has a thorough knowledge of the player's technique and her delineations for the pictures have at all times been a triumph of artistry.

Miss Renick had planned to attend the opening of "The Golden Snare" in Santa Ana, but was called to Tahiti "on location" last week. She will be in the islands for two months working on a production in which she is to be starred.

Edna Murphy, another pretty blonde girl, is due to the West End next Thursday. She appears with Johnny Walker in "Play Square," a Fox production. Both these young folks were elevated to stardom recently, through sheer merit. Both won their laurels in "Over the Hill," "The Twister picture," soon to be seen here.

It is quite like "old friends' week" on the local silver sheets. Do you remember Stoneman's mulatto wife in "The Birth of a Nation"? She was portrayed by Mary Alden, who is to be seen at the Yost tonight in "The Witching Hour," with Elliott Dexter and Ruth Renick.

Mary Alden has long been favorably known in the film career dating back to "The old Biograph-Griffith days."

Thomas Meighan in "The Easy Road," with Lila Lee and Gladys George, is to appear at the Yost next Thursday. This is a story of a poor genius who married a beautiful girl and then it is that makes life worth while.

Wanda Hawley follows the Thomas Meighan engagement at the Yost, coming next Sunday in "A Kiss in Time," something different in comedy.

"The Call of Youth," filmed amid beautiful scenes in England, a happy-hearted romance of youth, as the title implies, is the feature production at the Yost tomorrow night, rounding out the Melkjohn and Dunn vaudeville road show, for details of which you are referred to the advertisement in today's Register.

It isn't given to every girl to test convincingly in advance of marriage, the character of the man whose engagement ring she wears. But Eileen Percy, in "Hickville to Broadway," the Fox picture which comes to the West End next Friday makes such a test—and under extraordinary circumstances. The story is said to furnish good entertainment. Rosemary Theby is in the cast.

Jack Hoxie is at the Princess tonight in "Cyclone Bliss," the second of his new series of Westerns. Plenty of action; horsemanship with a punch.

The week's calendar follows:

TONIGHT
YOST—"The Witching Hour," vaudeville.
WEST END—"The Golden Snare."

Stage and Screen News

of the Week

By FRANCES DEANER

Theater managers of Santa Ana have prepared programs of unusual merit for their patrons this week—a week that gives promise of many fine attractions when the 1921-1922 season is in full swing, a fortnight hence.

Two outstanding features of this week are the appearance here of Mae Marsh and Monroe Salisbury on the silver sheet, after an absence, in each instance, of two years in retirement.

Mae Marsh, who is there who has seen "The Birth of a Nation," who does not remember the little sister—Mae Marsh? And who is there who saw "Ramona" who does not recall Monroe Salisbury's "Allosaurus"?

During her retirement, Mae Marsh became the wife of a New York newspaperman and the mother of an adorable baby girl. She comes to the Princess screen Thursday night in "Nobody's Kid," a picture based on "Mary Cary," the novel by Kate Langley Bosher, bringing all the whimsical charm that has made her a memorable figure in filmland. It is a picture in which both comedy and pathos strive for first honors and one, too, that is gripping and interestingly told.

Monroe Salisbury is to appear at the Princess, also, making his screen appearance tomorrow night in "The Barbarian," a super-production that was many months in the making and one in which mighty forests, limpid lakes, gurgling rivers and the glorious Northland sky form the four walls within which the epic of a man's struggle for right develops and reaches its climax. Jane Novak heads a notable supporting cast in which the two Cudaby children, Michael and Anna, have important roles. Monroe Salisbury "fans" will like this production.

"Sentimental Tommy"—Is there need to say more?

He will be at the Temple theater, opening Thursday, and impersonated Gareth Hughes, who will have the well-chosen support of May McAvoy as Grizel and Mabel Taliaferro. This production in itself is sufficient to create a "tidal wave" in the local theatrical pond—and it is only one of many good things.

Another important personality here this week is Ruth Renick, co-starring with Lewis Stone in "The Golden Snare," now current at the West End. Although comparatively new to the screen, Ruth Renick has had long service in the spoken stage. EVENING SALUTATION

Jesus Christ was Himself not perfected in one day; in Him patience had its perfect work. True faith recognizes the need of time and rests in God.—Rev. Andrew Murray.

CONFIDENCE IN OUR SCHOOLS

With faces shining and smiling, tanned by the summer's sun, thousands of strong healthy Orange county children today faced scores of capable, optimistic schoolteachers in schoolrooms all over the county.

It is to be a big year in school development in Orange county. In the past twelve months, hundreds of new families have moved into our favored section. Every district is alive to the advisability of keeping its schools thoroughly up to modern standards. In keeping with the idea of high standards, a number of new schoolhouses have been built in the county in the past year, and a number will be built during the coming year. Our schools are expanding to meet the growth. With us there is no such thing as standing still. As our schools increase in enrollment, our districts increase in assessed valuations, so that money is forthcoming to meet increased expenses, and as enrollment increases we increase the efficiency of our teachers and the equipment of our schoolrooms.

If anyone desired a striking example of Orange county's thoroughly progressive and enterprising spirit, let him look at our schools. There are today in the county two junior colleges, each giving courses accepted by universities as equal to two years in college. In the county today are eight high school districts—Fullerton, Anaheim, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, San Juan Capistrano, Tustin, Orange and Santa Ana. With but few exceptions, every high school boy and girl in the county is within easy reach of a high school. The system of transportation, as worked out by some of the high schools through motor bus facilities, takes the student to and from school with a minimum of bother to him and his parents. Elementary schools all over the county maintain high standards in schooling, building and attendance. The exceptions to the general rule are remarkably few. The Orange county country school district today frequently has a building that equals in facilities and general appearance the elementary schools of the nearby cities.

Altogether, Orange county residents have every reason to have confidence in their schools.

Nobody wants to go back to the days of cruel and inhuman punishments of persons convicted of crimes or wishes to see the great forward movements in prison reform turned backward. Between fatuous clemency and undue rigor, however, there is a middle course of true justice, founded on respect for law, on common sense and the true good of society, which takes due cognizance of the circumstances surrounding the crime, yet refrains from undue coddling of the criminal.

FATTY ARBUCKLE IS DONE

Whether the courts find Fatty Arbuckle guilty of the brutal crime of which he is charged, Fatty Arbuckle's day as a screen favorite is past. He is done. So far as the screen is concerned, he has committed suicide. By his own standards of behavior he has cut himself off from the success that has attended his activities in the cinema.

In the past few months, the film producers have been carrying on a war against proposed censorship of the screen. They have declared most emphatically that they themselves were developing higher standards, and that censorship by national, state and municipal authorities was absurd and un-American. In their propaganda they have declared themselves as aiming at meeting the call of public welfare for better films.

And while the film folk are censoring their own films, might it not be well for them to censor their stars?

Censorship of stars, in truth, is far more important than censorship of films.

What a blow to youthful ideals has been dealt through the actions of some of the men and women who have endeared themselves to countless thousands of people!

But rottenness in personal life seems to carry its punishment inevitably. Even film stars are not immune to punishment here on earth, however severe the punishment hereafter may be. Even film stars are not exceptions to the general rule. Once a public finds out the truth of a star's immorality, that star wanes. Often the light is completely obliterated.

Who has seen a picture featuring F. X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne since the disclosures in connection with their lives?

Who has cared to look upon Jack Pickford on the screen since his wife, Olive Thomas, killed herself in Paris?

Who can ever again see Mary Pickford or Douglas Fairbanks without mentally reckoning the destruction of family ties and ideals that lies back of their marriage?

The courts may not find Fatty Arbuckle guilty of the charge of murder. He may never suffer the death penalty and he may never see the inside of San Quentin. But his manner of living has been exposed. The real Fatty Arbuckle is thrown on the screen.

The withdrawal from the screen of pictures in which he appears bespeaks his death knell. Whatever the courts may do, the theater managers, keen discerners of public sentiment, have passed judgment on him. As a film star, Fatty Arbuckle is done.

It begins to look as if the Irish harp had a thousand strings.

PANAMA'S SERVICE

The United States government was not wholly selfish when it built the Panama Canal. There was keen realization of the military advantages which its ownership would bring, and of course much was expected in a commercial way, but everyone knew that the whole world would profit.

Statistics just made available indicate the benefits which the rest of the world is reaping, and make plain America's gains.

In the first years of the canal's operations British shipping represented 41 to 45 per cent of the traffic. These last years, 1918, 1919 and 1920, the vessels of the British Empire have made but 34 per cent of the net tonnage and 32 per cent of the cargoes. The growth of the American merchant marine could hardly be more effectively illustrated.

The American trade is mostly coastwise, but the British essentially imperial. Trade between England and Australia bulked largest with 950,000 tons. European trade with the west coast of South America was second with 747,000 tons, and that to the west coast of North America was not far behind. Oddly enough, all the figures indicate that most of the vessels that go out to the Orient through the Canal return by way of the Suez. The west-bound traffic is always heaviest, and the two canals supplant each other and stimulate a true round-the-world trade. The Cape of Good Hope and the Horn have lost their opportunities it not their terrors. It took two canals to bring this to pass.

Those marching Mingo miners should begin to realize before long that very few problems can be settled with the feet.

HE THINKS MARS SIGNALS

Signor Marconi, inventor of wireless, believes that he has intercepted messages from Mars. This announcement was made in all seriousness at a Rotary Club banquet in New York by J. C. H. MacBeth, London manager of the Marconi company.

According to Mr. MacBeth, Marconi, in the course of various wireless experiments, has received wireless waves far longer than those of any wireless station in the world. He scouts the suggestion that these are merely atmospheric disturbances because they are repeated at regular intervals regardless of atmospheric or other interference.

If it is true that signals are being received from another planet it is a dazzling prospect, promising the advance of scientific knowledge, as Mr. MacBeth suggests, "more than 200 years."

There are plenty of people, scientists and others, to scoff, but, inasmuch as nobody knows how far earth-sent wireless messages go into the ether, who is in a position to prove that these are not coming from some other planet on the outermost bounds of space?

Ties of Noble Service
Pasadena Star-News

Joint celebration of the birth of Lafayette and the first battle of the Marne, at the tomb of Washington, and elsewhere in the United States, stressed the ties of noble friendship existing between America, the land of Washington, and France, the land of Lafayette.

It is a friendship "built on the firm foundation of historic mutual service," not upon "mere sentimentality or selfish interests."

Lafayette came to the service of the struggling American colonies "with no sordid motives, but with a heart full of sympathy and passionate desire to help them."

And more than a century later this nation sent huge armies from the flower of its youth, "disclaiming any material advantages for themselves," that liberty and that "freedom which Lafayette cherished and espoused should be assured to France."

These expressions from President Harding epitomize graphically the mutuality of unselfish, unswerving service rendered by Lafayette and France to America, and, long subsequently, by America to France. The beauty and the majesty of these mutual services lie in their freedom from sordidity and self-seeking. Such instances of disinterested service are exceedingly rare in the history of nations. These mutual ministrations, therefore, in the name of friendship and freedom, should be cherished for all time for the purity and exalted character of the motives which prompted them.

Will Hays, Optimist
Long Beach Press

Looking to the future "with great hope," Will H. Hays, postmaster general, says that "everyone knows" that there is ahead "the greatest era of expansion and prosperity the world has ever seen." The only question discussed, he says, is, when this golden era is to begin. Falling into epigram, Mr. Hays says that "we are not in a period of hard times coming, but in a period of soft times going; prosperity is coming—it's time to go out and meet it; I declare again, and shall continue to insist that we have less 'thou shalt not' and more of 'come on, let's go!'"

Very sound sentiment and very significant, inasmuch as it comes from an influential member of President Harding's cabinet. Mr. Hays touches on a phase of the general economic situation that deserves especial attention—that is, prosperity is on the way, and it is "time to go out and meet it." The people can hasten the return of prosperity by going out to meet it; by buying as their needs indicate; by putting their money into healthy circulation, and yet not wasting it. Be frugal, yes; practice thrift, yes; but do not hoard in miserly way, and do not abstain from buying in normal volume. Buy, invest, use money to help both yourself and the public—this is, in effect, going out to meet prosperity, and biding it welcome, which would bring it on swifter feet.

THINGS ABOUT A DAY

In the first place you can do with a day about as you choose. It comes to you with no reservations.

If it is a rainy day you may enter it in the spirit of gloom and don't careness, or you can say to yourself: "Now won't things be fresh from this rain—tomorrow!"

I tried to take a picture the other day at high noon. But somehow I failed to find a good site for one. I couldn't understand it. Then all in a second I said to myself that the reason was that there were no shadows to the picture!

What is more beautiful than the lengthening shadows of the day? The thing that makes the new day especially attractive to me, however, is that it may be started fresh. No matter how full of mistakes or discouragements or failures yesterday may have been—the new day that comes is like a clean slate. You can begin all over with it.

There is always something interestingly new to learn as each day comes again.

New people to meet, new books to find and read and to get thrills from, new viewpoints, new beauties in nature to wonder about, new experiences—new chances to help someone to be happier! These are just a few of the things that a day brings.

Some go into a day and miss everything. As though its fruits were hidden underneath dense foliage. But there are others who enter every day expecting great things, go after them—and get many that they never dreamed of getting.

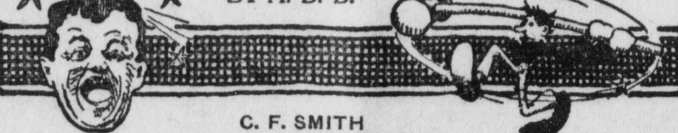

For each day is a good deal of a surprise. It looks quite the same as every day that has preceded it, but in reality it is all new. Therefore a virgin field for work and achievement.

See how much you can put into a day. That is necessary if you hope at all to take anything out.

A day spells—CHANCES!

C. F. SMITH

To find the softer spots upon this hard and rocky sphere is proof that your machinery for thinking is in gear. The masses seek the leisure which they rarely can achieve. They're driven by necessity to miracles relieve. The fellow who can get the time to travel and reflect is well above the average, you properly suspect.

Smith had the seasoned judgment to provide for his expense by fixing things so other men would pay him annual rents. He owns some business property both here and in the East, and from necessity of work is happily released. He gives to civic interests a lot of time and toil, and what he does is worth to us as much as finding oil.

There's nobody stronger in his praise of his home town; as commerce chamber president he preaches its renown. His active brain and calm sound sense are assets, we are sure, that help to bring the tourist here in search of wealth or cure.

Worth While Verses

BY THE SEA
(Laguna)

Those nights! They were filled with unearthly splendor:
The shudder of tides on the silver sand.
The glamorous moon, half-eerie, half-tender,
And we on the rocks holding hand in hand.

Green-white the crests of the breakers glistened;
Loud rang their boom from the crazy wall.
There was magic abroad! How we sang—how we listened—
With hearts gone forth at the ocean's call!

In the murmurous lulls when the spent waves wasted,
A cloud veiled the fire of your glance from me;
But phosphorescent gleams through the warm dusk hasted—
The steps of a god on the darkening sea!

Enchantment and splendor—bawling story!
O rapture of spray kissing eyelids and hair!
O moon-compelled waters! O passion and glory!
What wonder that love wrought the miracle there?

HERE'S REAL LOGIC

Edwin had been kept in the house all afternoon for being naughty, and toward evening he said: "Mamma, I wish I lived in a flat."

"Why, Edward?" queried his mother.

"Because," answered the little fellow, "people who own flats don't allow children in them."

FIGURES IT OUT

"Mr. Smith," a man asked his tailor, "how is it you have not called on me for your account?"

"Oh, I never ask a gentleman for money."

"Indeed! How, then, do you get on if he doesn't pay?"

"Why," replied the tailor, after a momentary hesitation, "after a certain time I conclude he is not a gentleman, and then I ask him."

NONE THERE AT PRESENT

A member of one of the theatrical clubs tells of a stranded, but still haughty, leading man who was obliged to put up at a dilapidated country hotel. He glanced frowningly about the office, reluctantly signed the register, and took the brass key from the proprietor.

"Is there any water in my room?" he demanded.

"There was," replied the proprietor, "but I had the roof fixed."

MEDALS DROWN HIM

The fair bather approaching the old salt questioned him as to the fate of the young guard who had won so many medals for life saving. "Well," he replied, "one day when off duty he fell into the water, and the weight of his medals carried him down."

"Ho, yuss!"

ADMONITION TO YOUTH

908 Orange Ave., Santa Ana.
Editor Register: We were pleased to see your little editorial a few nights ago about the reporter's "Aged Men." Have had the same thoughts ourselves in regard to their premature age judgment. I send these few lines. Publish it, if you think worth while, or do with them as you will.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. E. A. GERRARD.

"Aged Men."

Come, all you youthful writers
Who yearn for praise and fame;
Your words and thoughts so wondrously wise—
Pray, tell us whence they came.

You tell of marvelous victories won.
Some all outstripped the rest;
In games of baseball, football, golf—
Strength, youth and skill, attest.

But ah, the poor unhappy man
Whose useful days are o'er,
Disease,—he's helpless to resist—
He's fifty years or more!

A ripe old age he soon will reach,
He's near his dotage now!
Ah, yes, he's aged, his hair is gray,
There's wrinkles on his brow!

Yet one thing more we'd have you tell—
Does wisdom come with age?
Is folly driven then afar,
And sober thoughts engage?

Oh youth, secure in boastful pride,
Beware—your time will come.
Death has no favorites—one and all
Are destined for the tomb.

Then while you may, be wise, be just.
Let none despise your youth,
But be a pattern known to all
Of honest, earnest Truth.

CHAPTER 138
WHERE SNARLIE WEARS HIS HEART
By Harvey Elliott

"Why didn't you hold that brush up till I got out?" snapped Snarlief Wolf after Billy Bear had let him out from under the brushpile.

"I told you, didn't I?" answered Billy. "That it was too heavy to hold up all day."

"You are no friend of Peter Rabbit," replied Snarlief. "Like as not you have mashed him in there. Now we will have to go to work and clear this brush away or he may be dead before he can get out."

Now the fact was Snarlief Wolf couldn't give up that juicy dinner. He thought Peter Rabbit was still in the brushpile and maybe Billy Bear would help to get him yet. His back still ached from the squeezing he got under the brush, but that would be nothing if he could get hold of Peter Rabbit.

"Now that would be sad, indeed," said Billy Bear. "If Peter Rabbit were being squeezed to death in the brushpile. But I would just as soon have him squeezed in a pile of brush as in the jaws of a Wolf."

"What do you mean?" snapped Snarlief. "Didn't I tell you that I wanted to set Peter Rabbit free? It is very unkind of you to talk that way after I have worked so long and so hard to save Peter Rabbit's life. Now come on and get to work. Let's get him out so he won't die."

Billy Bear didn't say it, but he thought that what Snarlief Wolf wanted was to get Peter Rabbit out so he would die. Billy knew all the time that Peter wasn't within half a mile of that brushpile.

"All right, Snarlief," said Billy. "I'll lift the brush again and you pull him out."

"Not much!" said Snarlief. "You don't get me under there any more. You can just upset that pile clear over."

The pile wasn't very big, so Billy Bear gave a big heave and turned the brush the other side up. Snarlief sprang in and looked and sniffed everywhere for Peter Rabbit, but could not find him. Then he got angry.

"You've done it!" growled Snarlief Wolf. "Now he's gone! You'd no business stirring up the brush in that way!"

"Oh!" said Billy Bear. "I thought you said you wanted to get Peter Rabbit out of the brushpile, and now you are mad because he is out. That's funny, very funny, indeed! Then Snarlief Wolf skulked off home."

Billy Bear cocked his head on one side and said: "If Snarlief Wolf has a heart he must wear it on the inside of his stomach."
